If President Coolidge had time to travel through the country and if the people would tell him what they really think, which they never do, he would realize that he has lost hundreds of thousands of personal friends and hurt the Republican party by allowing General Mitchell to be humiliated and demoted to "save the face" of Weeks, who was put into the cabinet by influences with which President Coolidge is not well acquainted.

The president, of course, does not know the part played by the battleship builders and other big business in building of cabinets.

He apparently does not realize that the people of this country are at least 98 per cent against Weeks and in favor of Brigadier General Mitchell in the aircraft controversy.

It is a disadvantage to be surrounded by individuals that bow and scrape and always say, "Yes, Mr. President."

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the first Chinese republic, is dead.

Many centuries will roll over his grave in old China, and still there will be no real republic in that land of conservatism, gentleness, mis-directed scholarship.

You do not create a republic by changing governments, put out one man and putting in another, calling the new government "a republic." You must have people that want a republic, believe in equality, and know what a republic is.

Sun Yat Sen, called the George Washington of China, deserves praise as a brave, sincere man.

But a thousand George Washingtons could not have made a republic of China. Washington had Cromwell back of him, and people of the Cromwell type to fight with him in New England. He fought with part of Cromwell's strength.

Jefferson and the others had back of them the men and ideas that swept out the French kings, and the encyclopaedists that cleared the ground for democratic government, by preparing men's minds.

Sun Yat Sen was brave and eloquent. When doctors of the Rockefeller institution, reaching into distant China, told him he was dying of cancer, he said, "I know it." Sun Yat Sen performed the first major surgical operation ever seen in a Chinese hospital.

While he was building his republican movement, he was captured by a group of the emperor's soldiers. They were careful not to harm him, for they wanted "the big reward" to be paid only if Sun Yat Sen was taken alive. For a dead Sun Yat Sen the reward would be smaller. The big reward was to pay for the pleasure of being able to torture him, according to the Chinese custom of a few years ago, before putting him to death. He argued with his captors and they joined his revolutionary party.

Hugo Bettaur, who published a villainous immoral magazine in Vienna, is shot by Otto Rostock, who explains that he meant to kill the criminal publisher to "arouse the moral sentiment of Vienna," whose young people are degraded by such literature as Bettaur published.

Magazines such as Bettaur published are more a reflection of conditions than a cause of conditions. Still some good has been accomplished even if Bettaur himself, still alive, should be the only one "shocked into a sense of moral responsibility."

There are in the United States a few publications that might be improved by some emphatic action, although we haven't things quite bad enough yet to call for the Otto Rostock remedy.

Clothiers gathered in solemn conclave decided that the "real gentleman" must have a different necktie for every shirt, thus "demonstrating his artistic taste and his exclusiveness." Exclusiveness, doubtless, is desirable. But if each young American, for each factory shirt and necktie that he would like to have, would develop a real working idea, the country would be better off than with every necktie factory working full blast.

A man known only by his clothes belongs in the parrot house.

At Council Bluffs, Jasper McDonald, negro, 27 years old, pleadss guilty to criminal assault, and within an hour is sentenced to life imprisonment. That is better than a lynching, because of the effect on public opinion, and respect for law. There is unfortunately the possibility of escape.

Why not sentence such criminals first of all to a surgical operation that would forever prevent repetition of the crime, and after that a reasonable sentence at hard labor? Such punishment might be a deterrent.

KANSAS CITY, March 14.—Three children were slain with an axe today, a fourth is in the hospital and is expected to die, Mrs. M. T. Gibson is in a serious condition from shock and police arrested Gibson, 35-year-old garage man, who, they say, was responsible for the triple tragedy.

It is believed he got his own wound when he fell on the axe. At General hospital it was said he was in a serious condition.

Gibson, believed insane, was chasing his wife around their home in North Kansas City with an axe, according to neighbors. As she eluded him he crashed the axe against the skulls of the children.

C. of C. Petition For Water on Two Trains Granted

Drinking water has been placed on two C. & P. division passenger trains, through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce.

Complaints that train No. 422, eastbound, leaving here at 4:54 p. m., and train No. 423, westbound, arriving here at 9:37 a. m., were without drinking water for passengers, were received a few weeks ago.

The matter was referred to H. H. Gerrignes, Cleveland, superintendent of the C. & P. division, with a request that water tanks be installed. A communication was received today stating that arrangements have been made to grant the request.

SEVEN KILLED, 24 WOUNDED IN ELECTION RIOTS

Police Raid Communist Gathering in Germany.

4,000 PARTICIPATE

First Outbreak in Campaign to Name Ebert's Successor.

HALLE, Germany, Mar. 14—A Communist pre-election meeting that developed into a gun battle when police broke it up resulted today in the killing of seven persons and the wounding of 24. Six of the injured four of them policemen, suffered wounds that doctors said doubtless would prove fatal. The Communists were meeting in preparation for the coming Presidential campaign.

Among the dead was one woman.

Thousands jammed the meeting hall where Ernest Thaelmann, Communist candidate for President, and other speakers delivered inflammatory speeches.

The police had permitted the meeting only on condition that two English and one French Communist, who had been scheduled to make addresses, would ot be permitted to speak. The trouble started when one of the English Reds started to deliver an oration despite the police injunction.

At the height of the rioting shots were fired from the gallery. The police returned the fire and the disorders became widespread. Police estimated that 4,000 Communists participated in the outbreak.

Halle is an industrial city and a hotbed of Communism in Germany. The city often has been the scene of bloody class war. After the revolution the aide of Bolshevism here was stemmed only by the genius of the leadership of the late President Ebert.

Launch Campaign For Mingo Junction Train Connections

For the accommodation of C. & P. division patrons, the Chamber of Commerce has launched a campaign for better connections with the Cincinnati and Columbus trains at Mingo Junction.

The chamber has written to C. C. Schadd, Cleveland, superintendent of the River division of the C. & P. railroad, asking that the river train, due here at 6:38 p. m., be held at Mingo Junction for a few minutes to make connections with the east bound Panhandle train, due there at 4:58. It is claimed that the C. & P. train often leaves just as the Panhandle train reaches the station.

This proposal was discussed by members of the Chamber's transportation committee and H. H. Garrignes, road superintenedut, at a conference here this week. The railroad company officials have promised to consider the request.

SOLONS DECIDE TO RESURFACE MULBERRY ST. THIS SUMMER

Factions Favoring and Opposing Improvement Speak.

PASS RESOLUTION

Steps are Taken to Collect Delinquent Assessments.

Despite a protest signed by property holders, representing approximately 1,050 feet frontage on the thoroughfare, city council, last night, set legislative wheels in motion for the resurfacing of Mulberry street, this summer.

Representatives of opposing factions appeared before the solons. A petition, protesting the improvement, was presented by E. F. Cunningham, Mulberry street grocer, who is leading the opposition. He declared that despite the vote taken at a public mass meeting held in East End last week most of the property holders are opposed to the expense of the proposed improvement, since the sanitary sewer assessments are now payable.

Resolution Is Enacted.

Frank Chambers, Mulberry street merchant, urged that the street be improved to complete the new route to the down town district, which would eliminate the steep Pennsylvania avenue grades. He asserted that the majority of the property holders favored the improvement provided the street car tracks were removed and that the cost of the resurfacing did not exceed the estimated $3.27 per runing foot.

A resolution, declaring it necessary to improve the street by resurfacing,

Marquis Curzon Improving

LONDON, Mar. 14—Marquis Curzon was reported making slow but favorable progress today. He was operated on Monday for kidney trouble.

Josephus Daniels, In Peace Appeal, Names "Big Three"

CLEVELAND, March 14—Andrew Mellon, Herbert Hoover and William M. Butler form a "big business triumvirate" in the nation's affairs today which no other influence can match in power, and when they speak, the nation can do no more than to sit up and listen.

This was the outlook of Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, when he urged world peace in an address before the Cleveland city club at noon today.

"Unless the influences which guide these three men are enlisted by the advocates of peace, efforts towards a world court will be prolonged," he declared.

"Big business" was cited as the driving and potent influence in all affairs of the United States. Churches, lawyers, politicians and newspapers were described as having been shorn of potency, and as influenced only by the "triumvirate of business."

Plea for Peace Will be Made Here By Judge Allen

This conference will likely be held within the next two weeks at which time an effort will be made to reach some agreement regarding the cost of the proposed road between Midland and the state line. The state is ready to proceed with this improvement as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made.

COOLIDGE ENDS WARREN FIGHT; SEEKS ANOTHER MAN FOR PLACE

Appointment, However, Will Remain Before Senate.

WORD GIVEN OUT

President and G. O. P. Leader Confer at White House.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Coolidge has decided to abandon his fight to name Charles B. Warren as attorney general, it was learned this afternoon.

While the Warren appointment will remain before the senate to meet a second and unavoidable rejection, the president now is engaged in selecting another nominee to head the department of justice.

Executive Accepts Defeat.

This was the word revealed to senatorial leaders following a hurried conference at noon between the president and Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, the Republican leader.

The president was prevailed upon to accept defeat in his drive to place Warren in his cabinet, it was learned, only after every recognized Republican leader in the senate assured him the nomination could not be confirmed. The president was finally persuaded to accept the situation and to agree to submit a new name to the senate early next week.

Five Under Consideration.

Among the men now under consideration for the appointment, it was said, were Justice Wallace McCamant of Oregon, who placed the president in nomination at Chicago in 1920 for the vice presidency; Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, of the Massachusetts supreme court; Silas Strawn, the Chicago lawyer; Solicitor General James M. Beck, and Senator Guy T. Goff of West Virginia. The president will determine upon the appointee and sub-

FOSTER PARENTS ARRESTED IN INVESTIGATION INTO DEATH OF CHICAGO'S "MILLIONAIRE ORPHAN"

CHICAGO, Mar. 14—The investigation into the death of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan" took another startling turn today when Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Shepherd, foster parents of young McClintock, were seized by detectives from the office of Robert E. Crowe, United States Attorney.

The Shepherd's were taken into custody after new charges had been made by Dr. C. C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences.

Face to face with Faiman in Crowe's office, Shepherd said:

"I do not know that man."

"You're a liar," Faiman flashed back.

Shepherd Denies Charges.

Throughout an hour's questioning that followed, Shepherd refused to admit any of the charges made by Dr. Faiman and he was taken to a hotel under heavy guard. Mrs. Shepherd was sent to her home in Kenilworth.

Shepherd denied that he had attended bacteriology classes in the science school; that he was taught by Faiman how to use a microscope and how to identify typhoid bacilli; that he took a letter from the school files in which he made application for courses in the school, and, after taking the letter, laid $50 on the table for Faiman; that he had anything to do with tubes of typhus culture which Faiman charges were missed shortly after he quit attending classes.

While Crowe has not committed himself, it seemed certain those close to the investigators said, that the evidence would be taken before the grand jury at once, possibly today. In the meantime, Crowe was to confer with Attorney General Oscar Chalstrom, who came to Chicago from Springfield in response to a telephone conversation with the state's attorney.

Bar Prisoners' Counsel

Attempts were to be made by Edwin Hedrick, counsel for Shepherd to the state's attorneys office, but was refused permission to talk to him or even to see him after they left the Shepherd home in Kenilworth.

When officers returned later and took Mrs. Shepherd into custody, Robert Stoll, also of counsel for Shepherd, and Rev. C. C. Naumann, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church at Evanston accompanied her.

Throughout the grilling, Mrs. Shepherd was cool and calm as was her husband. Both refused to give out any information except to deny everything that was charged.

Lie Is Passed

Detectives from the state's attorney's office today were searching the city for post graduate students of the science school who were expected by the state to testify that Shepherd did attend bacteriology classes and all telephone calls from the Shepherd home also were being checked. This was being done to determine whether Shepherd had any communication with Dr. Faiman, with John P. Marchand, salesman for the school, who alleged that he talked with Shepherd about taking courses in the school. with Dr. George Fosberg, who said before the coroner's jury that Shepherd paid him $50 to give him information on the effects and how to trace poisons and typhoid germs.

Marchand again identified Shepherd early today and Shepherd said:

"I don't know this gentleman."

Like Dr. Faiman, Marchand replied: "You're a liar."

Sensational Testimony.

Dr. Faiman, who began his testimony Thursday as a reluctant witness, is now a willing witness and his testimony has provided sensation after sensation. The climax came when he described in detail the private lessons in disease culture which he himself gave to Shepherd.

"We worked with a microscope," Dr. Faiman said, "and one of the first things I had to teach Mr. Shepherd

ARMS PARLEY UP TO FRANCE

Coolidge Ready to Act if Paris Supports Plan.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—If France can be brought into line, it appeared notu nlikely today that another international arms conference will be held in Washington next autumn or winter.

Great Britain is willing, Japan is willing—and President Coolidge, is ready to issue the invitations at the moment there appears a reasonable chance for a successful meeting. It rests with France.

Collapse of the Geneva protocol, and with it all of the league of nations plans for disarmament, has, in President Coolidge's opinion, opened the way for the United States to take the lead in organizing another conference.

Whether French objections can be overcome remains to be seen, but administration officials declared today they were more hopeful than they have ever been that the winter will see the world powers again gathered around the conference table to discuss mutual scrapping of arms.

Solons Decide

was passed on three readings later in the meeting. Councilman Larcombe, although voting for the resolution on first reading, cast his vote in opposition on the motion to suspend the rules and also on second and third readings. The other solons supported the resolution.

Upon a motion submitted by Councilman Kerr and seconded by Solon Farrail, the mayor was instructed to order the company to remove its Mulberry street tracks without further delay in order that there might be no tie-up in the improvement. This action was taken without a dissenting vote.

Wants Assessments Collected.

Petitions, one from St. George street residents, seeking permission to cross St. George street with a sanitary sewer, the other requesting the city engineer to establish the grade of Long alley, between First and Virginia avenues, were received by council and favorable action taken on both.

Councilman Hayes submitted a list of street and sewer improvement assessments, totalling $100,000, levied against East Liverpool property, most of which are delinquent.

"Let's take steps to collect this money," suggested Hayes. "This is one reason why the city is in debt. This property is good for the assessment and I believe there is some way to collect it if we only try."

President Canehart named Solons Hayes, Kerr and Larcombe as members of a committee to confer with the county prosecutor, county auditor and other county officials regarding the collection of the delinquent assessments.

Councilman Chambers called council's attention to a complaint made by the Riverside Knob company, regarding the railroad crossing at the foot of Market street. The street committee, with Engineer George, was instructed to investigate in an effort to eliminate the trouble, alleged to have been caused by the construction of a railroad siding to the new Crawford & Fleming warehouse.

May Extend Water Lines.

The service director was instructed to ash a section of Laurel avenue, upon a motion offered by Councilman Farrall. Many garages, it is claimed, face this thoroughfare and the owners are unable to get their cars out because of mud which is said to be a foot deep. The service director was also ordered to install a street light on this street.

The request for an extension of the water lines in Gardendale was referred to the street committee for investigation. Council Clerk Shone was granted a leave of absence for the next three meetings.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey appeared before council to discuss the proposed connecting link between Second street and Broadway, via the Conant property, which he recently purchased. He said the railroad company has not accepted the city's terms regarding the abandonment of the Second street crossing.

The street committee, city engineer and Mr. Vodrey were requested to draft the ordinance stipulating the only terms under which the city would agree to abandon this crossing and build the connecting link between the two streets.

The street committee recommended the installation of a street light on Montgomery avenue, Northside, that Denver street, Park avenue and Elizabeth street be ashed and that the matter of a bumper at the incoming freight station at the foot of Walnut street be investigated.

Foster Parents

was how to use it. In demonstrating the use of the microscope we placed typhoid germs in the slide because they were the kind of bacilli that Mr. Shepherd was inquiring about. I taught him how to recognize them.

"Mr. Shepherd said he was a lawyer and he wanted to prepare himself in case he should have to defend a client accused of administering germs.

"He wanted to know how typhoid germs could be kept and administered to a person without danger of detection. He inquired about different types of typhoid germs and I told him of three different types. The treatment for the disease caused by one type of germ would not be the correct treatment for the disease caused by another type."

Typhoid Germs Missing.

Dr. Faiman said that after Shepherd slast lessons three tubes of typhoid germs were missing.

Then followed Dr. Faiman's version of the letter story—the letter in which Shepherd was said to have shown his first interest in germs and asking about courses in bacteriology. Shepherd says this letter next existed.

"Just after the McClintock funeral," Dr. Faiman said, "Mr. Shepherd came to the University and we had a conversation in my office.

"I reminded him that after taking a few lessons he never had actually matriculated in the University. He said he would make that all right, meaning, I supposed, that he would pay for the instruction he had received.

"Then he turned the conversation casually to the way the University was operated and how its records were kept. He asked if we kept a file of correspondence. I told him we did and showed it to him."

Received $50 for Letter, He Claims.

"There's a letter here somewhere that I'm interested in getting,' Mr. Shepherd then said, and he proceeded to run through his files until he came to the 'S' division where he found his original letter written to the university. He folded it up and put it in his pocket, saying he would make it all right with me."

Questioning by a state's attorney's aid later brought the statement from Dr. Faiman that "he received just $50 for that letter."

It was this alleged letter which had been mentioned at the coroner's inquest as "being worth $50,000."

Chief Justice Harry Olson, who has done more than any other one person to keep the investigation going, announced today that search was being made for Joseph Scheldeck, chauffeur for Shepherd until Louis Kiles succeeded him.

GREEK PROBLEM GENEVA ISSUE

New Questionnaire on Minorities Will be Sent to Athens.

GENEVA, March 14.—After a long speech by former Premier Venizelos, this morning, the league of nations council decided to send a new questionnaire to the Greek government on the treatment of Greek and Bulgarian minorities.

Greek representatives signed an agreement on this subject at the last council meeting which the Greek parliamant rejected, reopening the subject.

Delegate Ishii, of Japan, reported on the expulsion of the Greek cumenical patriarch from Constantinople, declaring that Turkey refused the council's jurisdiction, claiming it was an internal question.

Venizelos argued for the council's competency to rule in the difference, which nearly precipitated serious trouble between Greece and Turkey a month ago.

The council plans to conclude present business and adjourn tonight. Otherwise a Sunday meeting will be necessary.

Couzens-Mellon Row Breaks Out on Floor of Senate

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—The acrimonious row between Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan and the treasury department broke out on the floor of the senate today. Vigorously defending Secretary Mellon Senator Ernst, Republican of Kentucky, a member of the special committee investigating the Bureau of Internal Revenue, assailed Couzens' charges that he was being "punished" by the treasury because of his prosecution of the inquiry.

Ernst charged that Couzens was "posing as a martyr."

"The action by the department in regard to Senator Couzens has been followed in thousands of other cases, and it has worked no hardships on the tax payer," declared Ernst, who said that if Couzens had signed waiver setting aside the statute of limitations "there would not have been this trouble, and no assessment would have been levied."

The senate gave evidence of its support of Couzens by the number of offers of assistance that poured in on him from all sides.

One came from Senator Dupont, Republican of Delaware, multi-millionaire powder king, who volunteered to go the entire bond. Another was from Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, who offered to join a pool of senators to raise the bond.

NEW YORK, March 14. — Funeral services will be held in St. Louis, Mo., for Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, wife of the St. Louis publisher, who died last night from what were supposed at first to have been minor injuries received in an automobile accident.

Pulitzer was enroute to St. Louis today from Florida, where he had been on a fishing trip, and arrangements were being made here to send Mrs. Pulitzer's body to St. Louis late today or early tomorrow.

Due to persistent advertising in Switzerland, American toilet requisites have a large sale in that country.

BOGGS GUILTY; ESCAPES DEATH

Life Sentence Given Convicted Slayer of Surveyor.

HILLSBORO, O., March 14.—"Dapper Dan" Boggs, just 21 years old, goes to the penitentiary for life for the murder of Harry T. Magill, 30, deputy surveyor of Highland county, December 30, 1924.

"Dapper Dan," who has spent part of his time in writing poetry and singing love songs since he and his brother, John Boggs, 24, were jailed for the alleged murder, is far from being worried. "I'll get out of it some way," he says.

"Lady Luck," whom the Boggs brothers are betting on to free them in the long run, Saturday smiled slightly at Dan for the jurors, declaring him guilty of first degree murder, recommended mercy. That saves Dan from the electric chair.

Brother Awaits Trial

John's Trial on the same charge begins Monday morning. John testified that neither Dan nor he killed Magill. They were arrested on suspicion of robbing the Hillsboro hardware store and were being taken to jail, they tried to escape and Ed Lemon, a merchant policeman, who was being assisted by Magill in arresting the prisoners, fired at them and accidentally shot his own companion.

The wives and babies of the Boggs brothers were in court during the trial and so were the widow and child of Magill. It is thought that the cooing and crying of Dan Boggs' infant helped sway the jury, three of whose members were women.

John and Dan Boggs are scions of a wealthy family at Jackson, O. The police charge them with committing a number of robberies of stores while going through Ohio in their auto, presumably to sell stove polish.

Wheat Hits New Lows in Chicago; Market is Erratic

CHICAGO, Mar. 14—After an irregular opening wheat in the first few minutes of trading today broke to new lows. The May future dropped to $1.62 before it strengthened up again. At the mid-session wheat was 2¼ to 2¾ and corn was ¾ to ½ under yesterday's close. All the markets were furiously erratic in early trading, jumping up and down in a way that made trading most hazardous. Execution of orders at any where near the prices that showed on the ticker at the time they were put in was mere luck.

Helen Stokes Happy Although Wealthy Husband is Freed

CHICAGO, March 14—Despite the fast acquittal by a jury of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire New York hotel man on a charge of conspiracy to defame his wife, Helen Ellwood Stokes, she was jubilant today as her husband will not have to go to jail.

Her feelings in the matter are ascribed to the fact that during the highly charged atmosphere of the trial, Stokes' attorneys declared they did not really believe that Mrs. Stokes was the "red headed Helen" named in the suit.

Stokes was acquitted in 61 minutes by a jury of having conspired to defame his wife and to drag her name through the fleshpots of Chicago's old underworld.

Bituminous Coal Industry Reported In Semi-collapse

WASHINGTON, March 14.—A condition of semi-collapse exists in the bituminous coal industry, according to the department of commerce, which made public today surveys covering all the fields of the country.

The industry is over-manned and over-produced, according to the government surveyors, and the mild weather in February further contributed to the decline that is generally noticeable throughout the entire industry.

Remedial measures will be discussed next week at Cleveland where operators of the central competitive field are to meet.

To the Public:

I wish to state through the medium of this paper that I did not give any evidence whatsoever against —— Albert (Mose) Watkin at Wellsville on March 6th and 9th.

I was supposed to be a states witness according to reports.

If I was a state witness my evidence cleared Mr. Watkin of the charges he was being tried on. I simply stated the truth in the case which was enough for the dismissing of the case against Mr. Watkin.

A. W. LOWERY.

mit his name to the senate probably Monday, or as soon as the Warren nomination is formally rejected for the second time.

Administration leaders failed in efforts to get the president to withdraw Warren's name in face of certain defeat. The president was said to have declared that such action would be an admission that he erred in sending Warren's name back for the second time. This, he refused to do, maintaining that Warren was entirely fit for the appointment and that partisan influences were the cause of his rejection.

As a result of the president's decision, a gentleman's agreement was reached in the senate to postpone further consideration of the Warren nomination until Monday. It was said a vote will be quickly reached then, the appointment rejected, a new nomination sent to the senate and confirmed without much delay. An adjournment will follow.

Cancer May Yield

Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., addressing physicians in Philadelphia, said the other day that medical science is "slowly but surely approaching the conquest of cancer." Wasserman, the German scientist, who has made exhaustive studies of blood, is beginning to believe that by blood analysis he can discover the presence of cancer before it has reached the point of malignant growth.

When the surgeon can catch cancer in an early stage, he can almost always remove it safely, and often without danger of recurrence. But the internal cancers too often proceed without giving any warning to the patient until they have involved organs which make it impossible to operate without danger.

The cause of cancer so far eludes discovery. When that is found, it will be conquered indeed. Meanwhile, every step towards early diagnosis is a welcome aid.

United States Silks in the Louvre

American visitors at the Louvre museum in Paris may now have the pleasure of looking at some beautiful silks made in South Manchester, Conn. An exhibit of 2,500 yards of printed silks, tinsel and cut velvets in 100 color schemes and 30 designs has been received recently by the French director of fine arts, in the presence of Ambassador Herrick and the French minister of justice.

American museums contain textile exhibitions from many parts of the world and of many different centuries. But few Americans realized that domestic silks were of sufficient artistic, scientific or historical importance to be placed on exhibition in a foreign museum.

Imported silks, embroideries and laces are highly valued by many American consumers. It is worth noting that our manufacturers also produce materials of beauty and excellence.

Children Who Travel Alone

Now and then the public is interested by a news story of some child who is forced by circumstances to take a long journey alone. It always seems a surprising and rather unusual thing. It is really fairly common.

Officers of the traffic department of the Canadian National railways say their lines alone, during the past year, carried more than 100 children under 12 years of age long distances. Employes and officials of many lines are thoroughly prepared to transport unaccompanied youngsters safely to their destination. Four of the children so carried last year on the C. N. R. went to California from the east, several went to Vancouver, and a large number went to points in the Canadian prairie provinces.

Just recently two youngsters have arrived from London, England, who are bound for Timmins, Ont. They are four and two years old, respectively.

No parents want to send their minor children off on long journeys alone. Yet there are unfortunately occasions when it is necessary that little folks be sent to a distant place, although there are no relatives or friends able to take them. It is pleasant to know that in such cases their journey is safely and happily made because there are honest and kindly persons all along the way who can take charge of them.

The Intelligent Age

Geofrey H. Thompson, an English educator, concludes after long research that human intelligence is keenest at the age of 16. That is to say, at 16 a boy or girl is more capable of grasping and understanding things than he or she ever was before, or ever will be again.

Additional knowledge will come later. Maturity should bring more judgment, more wisdom. But never again will the mind be so plastic to new impressions, so quick and receptive to new ideas and information.

The intelligent man, Prof. Thompson says, is nearly always found to have been an intelligent youth. If he did not show it in school, it was probably the fault of teachers.

There are two obvious conclusions to be drawn from this. One is the importance of teachers and parents doing their best to utilize the outburst of intelligence that comes normally to a youngster in his 'teens. The other is the folly and waste of boys and girls leaving school, as so many do, just at the time when their minds are most receptive to knowledge and influences which tend to shape all the rest of their lives.

Air Collisions

Two French airplanes, performing military maneuvers, collided the other day in the clouds, half a mile up, and dropped to earth like shot birds.

That might happen anywhere, once in a million times, with but a few planes in the air at once. A less excusable incident of the same kind was the head-on collision of two passenger planes last year, in the London-Paris air line, with disastrous consequences.

If these things occur now, with airplanes still an infrequent sight to the big majority of human kind, what will it be like when the sky is as full of planes as the land is now of motor cars? Traffic difficulties, though of a different sort, will be far more complicated and perplexing, and accidents more serious.

If the airplane, unlike the automobile, has a third dimension in which to dodge collision, by the same token it has three dimensions in which to collide. This may prove to be the most baffling problem of human flight.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 14.—Montmartre was hedged in by one of those drizzling rains. It was after midnight and I sat at a marble topped table in a little cafe in Place Pigalle. The white coated barman was napping with a dozing cat on his shoulders.

There was a sprinkling of those flabby and dropsical women known as Georgette, Lulu, Gaby and Charlotte. At one table a little aloof was a long haired student alternately writing and dreamily gazing at the opalescent squares in the street shed by lights inside.

It was interesting to watch the casual patrons who dropped in at this late hour. A police inspector who sipped coffee out of a glass. A clerical, melancholy looking fellow who distributed pamphlets on virtue. And then drank a gin fizz.

A man and a girl. It was evident a passing fancy had become a long drawn out and serious liason. And they were bored. I gathered she was leaving him that night. He was a little sorry but his happy relief outweighed it. Love jells quickly in Montmartre.

A very old woman with ruffled white hair who chewed at a short stemmed clay pipe. She had the face of a weasel and I imagine the cunning. These old hags manage somehow to keep on living in a haze of rum soaked bliss.

The place reeked with the mingling smells of coffee, eau de cologne and tobacco smoke. A sleepy eyed boy came out from under the bar where he was napping and sprinkled sawdust on the floor. Then with a hatpin he picked up the cigarette ends lying about and pocketed them to sell later.

Two of the women began to quarrel. French women cat-spit awhile and then pull hair. They did this. And 10 minutes later were smiling and chatting amiably. It was nearing dawn when I left. Nobody was thinking of going home. Montmartre likes company. It does not enjoy being alone with its thoughts.

Having remained up so late I decided to make a night of it and visited chez Marianne in the Boulevard de Clichy for breakfast. It is one of those depraved places that advertises "les hommes spirituels et gair" and "les vraies jolies femmes," but it is supposed to serve the best chicken in Paris. Chicken was a little too heavy so I selected an omelet. It was excellent. All through Montmartre gay parties were on their way for onion soup without which Paris does not believe any hectic night is complete. The prices on the left bank are just about half what they are on the right bank of the Seine and the food and service are just as good. Because the right bank is considered smart it is able to double its price.

I have written so often of the beauty of a Paris morning that it may become tiresome, yet I can think of only one thing so awe inspiring—and that is the New York skyline. I had the driver take me to Notre Dame and watch that enduring bulk as the sun came up, for the skies had dried and the day promised to be fair. Notre Dame clutches the past and present. Its portals have been stained by the blood of revolutions and profane hands have pillaged it but its majestic silhouette remains. Its Gothic mystery and imagery give you a sweeping emotion of life and eternity. I know of an unemotional business man who saw Notre Dame one night in the falling dusk and wept like a child. People in the shabby quarters and narrow old streets in the neighborhood were arising from sleep. You could hear singing and laughter. It is surprising to think Paris has so recently passed through a calamity.

Enchanting as Paris is I could never live here permanently. For after all America spoils you for Europe. Many of us should come over here more often for a new appreciation of our own greatness.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

SEEKING GOOD HEALTH

WASHINGTON, March 14. — And now we have the health studio. A group of earnest men and women in Washington have banded together and in various ways are striving to attain a better state of health. The director is a phychologist and metaphysician and her husband is a masseur. There is also a teacher of dancing, an instructor in natural gymnastics, and, in addition, visiting authorities who give free lectures on good health.

These lectures are given Sunday afternoons and are on such subjects as "Correct Eating," "How to Build a Healthy Body," and "How to Get Well and Stay Well." They are followed by buffet suppers introducing nutritious foods in proper combinations. These well-balanced meals, in fact, are a regular feature of the studio. Breakfast and dinner are served. These are prepared scientifically so as to meet the requirements of each patient or client. If the person is too stout, he is served with meals containing no fattening foods. If he is too thin he is given foods having the greatest amount of fattening contents.

The instructor of dancing uses the slogan, "Dance for Health." He says he believes that dancing is one of the greatest aids to good health. It assists in equalizing not only the flesh of the body, but also the energy. It teaches the dancer rhythmic breathing. He unconsciously breathes to the rhythm of the music.

This rhythmic, or vitalic, breathing differs from the deep breathing which has long been advocated by physical instructors, as well as the medical profession. It is really sniff breathing. In walking at an ordinary gait the person is told to breathe in the following fashion: In, in, out. Rest three steps. In, in, out. When walking rapidly or running, the breathing should be, in, out. In, out. This sort of breathing is said to develop the upper lung.

People are urged to dance as a means toward attaining grace and poise. It also aids in overcoming self-consciousness, which is certainly a curse and a handicap to many persons. The "home work" assigned by this instructor consists of exercises which are designed to fit the individual pupil.

ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS

This, of course, is just one small group of the large army of health crusaders. More and more people are realizing the vital importance of good health. It is the keystone of a successful career. No one who is not physically up to par can possibly stand the gaff of this whirlwind modern life. He may go along for some time with no apparent ill effects, but sooner or later comes a snap. In order to avert this he must follow certain health laws. And to teach him these has become the life work of many in all parts of the country.

One of the best known of these, perhaps, is William Muldoon, who has his hygienic institute near White Plains, N. Y. To him have gone rich and poor, famous and humble. One of his famous clients was the late Theodore Roosevelt. The keynote of Mr. Muldoon's course seems to be discipline. He is insistent upon this. If a man who has put himself under his care does not conform to the rules and regulations of the institution, and will not obey orders, he is asked to leave. Mr. Muldoon explains that this is not done for his benefit, but because each rule and each order is to help the client, and if he will not comply with them there is no use of his remaining.

The usual routine of the institute is as follows: Get up at 6 and exercise in the gymnasium for half an hour. Then take a shower, after which breakfast is served. Dinner is served in the middle of the day and supper in the evening. Bedtime is 9 o'clock. A great deal of running and walking is also done. The diet of each man is regulated according to his needs. If he is found exchanging with someone else who perhaps has been given food more to his taste, he is liable to a public rebuke from Mr. Muldoon.

William Muldoon is 70 now and might pass for 50 or 60. He is active, alert and fairly exudes good health. Most of this he attributes to self-discipline. He says he feels he may fairly claim that his mind has absolute control over his body. He never indulges himself in the smallest thing. If he knows that an extra cup of coffee is not good for him he will not drink it. He urges everyone to be a strict self-disciplinarian, saying that most of us know quite well what we should do, but we are too self-indulgent to do it.

A NEW JERSEY FARM

Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion and captain in the Sanitary corps, U. S. army, during the World war, has a physical training farm at Long Hill Summit, N. J. Here also men are instructed in the art of right living. Proper exercise, wholesome diet and relaxation are prescribed and personally supervised by Mr. Welsh.

In addition to places of this sort there are the various types of clinics where free information on health subjects, and often free treatment, is given to those who are not able to pay. Nearly every city now has clinics operating under the supervision of the public health department, local hospital or some social welfare organization, where mothers may take their babies to be weighed and receive advice as to their general physical welfare. Usually for the poor there is no charge for this service, while those who can pay a nominal fee. This money is used to help defray the actual expense of conducting the clinic.

About two years ago in New York city the health corner was organized by the New York Tuberculosis association and a public health nurse placed in charge. In the window were placed exhibits which were designed to attract attention of the passerby. At first few did more than look in the window. Some wandered inside through curiosity and some asked advice for "a friend." Under the sympathetic understanding of the nurse in charge, however, these latter soon admitted that they were the ones for whom the advice was wanted.

Health programs were arranged in many of the public schools, which included series of talks, posters, health exhibits and Chew-Chew, the health clown. Teachers conducted their classes on excursions to the health corner. In schools there were no organized nutrition classes, but children who were undernourished were referred to the health corner. There they received instruction individually or in nutrition classes. Settlement and neighborhood houses were invited to send their clubs for similar instructions.

This health corner has now been discontinued and experiments are to be made in establishing centers in various sections of the city for the purpose of testing out methods of health education. The first neighborhood selected for this work is the East Harlem district. health shop is to be opened there by the new York Tuberculosis association in co-operation with 22 agencies which constitute the East Harlem health center.

If the ambitions of all of these advocates of good health are realized 25 years from now the medical profession may not be a lucrative one.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, March 14.—Joan of Arc is again the center of attraction on the Paris stage.

Madame Simone, one of France's well-known actresses, is now appearing in Jeanne d'Arc in her husband's new play, "La Vierge au Grand Coeur." It is the work of a true poet, with beautiful images and high sentiments, but not the kind of a play that will be successful with the public of today. It is a modern tune played on an old instrument, giving the development of the little peasant maid of Orleans from shepherdess to heroine. But something is lacking and the play drags.

Madame Simone believes that her husband's version of Joan is much more realistic than the one of "G. B. S."

"He has presented her as she really was," she says, "a woman of action as well as a mystic. Mr. Show's theme is apropos of the girl, while my husband's is Jeanne herself."

The first scene shows the little shepherdess attached to home, but stirred by a call to save France. She would prefer to stay at home with her good parents, but the Archangel Michael appears and urges her to go to Chinon and meet the king. She does and later on to Orleans to fight, then to Rheims for the coronation of the king, and finally to Rouen to die.

"Natchalo" takes us to Russia via the Theatre des Mathurins, to Russia of the Revolution, and it is an interesting journey. "Natchalo," which means the beginning of anything, features a group of high-class, intellectual Bolshevists just before the revolution and later after the fall of Kerensky. There are the usual types: Daicha, beautiful and troubling; devoted revolutionary who loves a French officer; also a revolutionary who remained in Russia to aid in the Red triumph. Finally, however, he begins to revolt and Daicha discovers his treason, thanks to Delaunoy's son, who is also in love with the beautiful Bolshevist vampire. Then came a toss-up between love and duty—what else could Russia of the Revolution produce?

Is it possible to vindicate the murderer of 800 little children—and this after four or five hundred years?

Gilles de Rais, arch-fiend and Blue beard who fought under the standard of Joan of Arc, may have been the victim of grave legal error after all, when he was executed, and steps are now being taken to reopen the trial.

A French marshal at the age of 25, the famous Gilles took advantage of his glory and fame, retired to his magnificent chateaux of Macheconl, Chantoce and Tiffanges, surrounded himself with untold luxury and dissipated his fortune so fast that before many moons he was forced to appeal to the famous Florentine alchemist, Prelati, to make him some gold.

In the meantime 800 choir children, serving the 40 chaplains that were with Gilles, disappeared mysteriously and the marshal was accused of having murdered them.

Now, during recent researches, Dr. Vinchon has found a real gold vein, rich enough, he says, to make it possible for profitable exploitation. Under the very chateau of Gilles de Rais is a little Klondike which may contain gold valued at more than 2,000,000,000.

It is now believed that this sudden wealth was due to the discovery of the precious ore beneath his castle and as for the disappearance of the little children—well, many children were lost in those troublesome times of war an adventure. And all of this certainly proves that everything will come to him who just waits long enough.

The commandery includes within its jurisdiction all organizations of the order in Western Ohio, from the Ohio river as far north as Leipsic, Putnam county. A. P. Gerten, here, is president of the grand board and chairman of the committee on arrangements.

He is today the sole proprietor of a wood and coal distributing establishment and conducts a wide and remunerative trade.

Sammie was the principal of the most famous immigration case in the history of the country, but after a bitter fight he was allowed to remain with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Goldman.

He attended Seymour school until shortly after Christmas time and was in the fifth grade when he decided to devote his entire time to the coal business, which he had started about the middle of December.

Rents Garage.

He rented part of a garage from his uncle, Harry Goldsmith, partioned it off and started distributing coal by the bushel. His father loaned him enough capital to buy the first two tons of fuel, but since then he has been entirely independent.

He purchases from five to ten tons per week wholesale and distributes in 100-pound loads. Every day Sammie receives from five to fifteen orders, shovels the coal in bushel bags, loads them on a hand sled and hauls them to their destination himself.

During the recent storms Sammie was the salvation of scores of residents of the west side. His sales increased enormously and necessitated his working from early morning until late at night. When the coal business is slack he shines shoes, and is saving his money to expand his enterprise When Summer comes he is going to deliver ice and wood and also continue shining shoes, thus establishing an all-year-round business.

Keeps Own Books.

Sammie keeps his own book of accounts, collects and pays the bills and transacts all other necessary affairs in connection with his work, which nets him from $10 to $25 per week profits, depending upon the weather.

He is but 17 years old and in a few years hopes to have his business developed into a much larger one, with a horse or truck and office and all other conveniences of a modern coal yard.

His father is a tinsmith by trade, but Sammie prefers a business career. He has one little sister, Yetta, whom he says he is going to help educate.

Stops Boxing.

MIDDLEPORT, March.—Church people here petitioned Mayor Brown to stop boxing matches. He did. Brown is a well-known conductor, running between Charleston, W. Va., and Columbus, O., in private life.

CHESTER TEAMS DIVIDE GAMES

East Liverpool Boys Win Fast Contest; Girls Score Victory.

Chester high school basketball teams closed the season last evening on the Rock Springs park floor by dividing the games with East Liverpool high teams. The local boys were defeated by a score of 32 to 24 while the Chester girls trimmed the Pottery City girls, score 18 to 15. The games drew the largest crowd of the season.

The boys contest was fast throughout and held the interest of the banner crowd especially in the first period of play when the two teams practically battled on even terms Chester girls took the lead at the outset and while their lead was threatened by a rally of their opponents late in the game they came through with a great victory.

English was the first to score in the boys game when he tossed a point from the foul line. Bennett got a field goal for Chester but the lead was evened up when Davis made a foul for the Potters. English scored from the foul line and Bennett scored again from the field. English scored the first field goal for the visitors and Pinney countered with a double decker for Chester. Davis then scored two fouls in rapid succession and the period closed with East Liverpool in the lead by one point, score, 7 to 6.

Bennett at the opening of the second period shot the ball through the net for two points. This gave Chester the lead but Leibschner tied it up with a foul. Pusey made a field goal and Campbell scored from the foul line. English scored from the field and Leibschner came through with a field goal from near the center of the floor. Davis and English scored from the field and the half ended with the visitors in the lead, score 18 to 9.

East Liverpool continued to run up points in the third period and held the lead at the close by a score of 28 to 14. Leibschner scored a field goal at the opening. Myers came back for Chester with a foul. Pinney scored a nice field goal from the center of the floor. Pusey and English both scored from the field and then Bennett came to the front with another two pointer. Davis and Pusey scored from the field as the period closed.

Chester played some fine basketball in the final period, three straight fouls and two field goals by Campbell cut down the visitors lead. Pusey made a field goal and Campbell scored once more from the field. Myers brought applause by shooting two field goals in quick succession and Pusey brought the scoring to a close by caging a pretty field goal.

Pusey and English were the high scorers for East Liverpool while Pinney, Bennett, Myers, Campbell were the leading scorers for Chester. Other members of the two teams played good basketball.

Chester girls went out in the lead at the start of the game and at the end of the first period were leading by a score of 9 to 5. At the half their lead was increased to a score of 15 to 7. Little scoring was done in the third period. East Liverpool girls made a bid for victory in the last period and at one time had crawled up to within two points of Chester.

Miss Paisley was the scoring star for Chester while Miss McElravey carried off honors in this line for the visitors. They were given good support from their teammates.

"My mother recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to me a year ago last spring," said Mrs. Omer C. Newman of 937 Mill St., Portsmouth, Ohio. "Through the winter and I had measels and could not get back my health. I felt nervous, weak and miserable. I began to take 'Favorite Prescription' with most satisfactory results, as my appetite improved and I grew stronger. I continued taking it until after the arrival of my little boy, who is now six months old. It kept me on my feet, as I was able to attend to all my work, and I feel sure it had a beneficial effect on my child. No word of mine can fully express the value I place on 'Favorite Prescription' and I can with all confidence recommend it to expectant mothers."

MOTOR LICENSE PEACE SOUGHT

The Legislature sped through another session yesterday before its week-end adjournment until Monday afternoon and as on the previous day the House of Delegates took advantage of the possibility of suspending constitutional rules requiring reading of bills on three days in order to pass a string of local measures on which the vote was unanimous.

The House also instituted a move to bring about a permanent peace with the neighboring state of Ohio in the matter of motor vehicle licenses, which became acute some months ago when both states arrested drivers of trucks bearing foreign licenses. High department officials of both states have failed to effect more than a truce in the dispute, and after receiving information that the Ohio Legislature had appointed a committee to confer with representatives of neighboring states the House passed a resolution to name a like committee to represent West Virginia.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c

Budapest Elevator Boy Madly in Love Murders Young Girl

BUDAPEST, March—Matthias Kirally was an elevator boy in the fashionable Ritz Hotel here, and he was madly in love with Elizabeth Adam, a chambermaid, who spurned him. As the girl entered his elevator to go to another floor, Matthias kept her a prisoner, running the car from cellar to roof and back a number of times, while he pressed his suit. Maddened by the girl's refusal to marry him, he plunged a knife into her breast, ran the elevator to the top floor and slashed his own throat. Guests heard their groans, and Matthias was saved from death, but the girl died.

MANY SEEKING PUBLIC OFFICE

Four Candidates Now in Field for Post as Marshal.

Interest in the forthcoming local political primary contest in Lisbon is increasing, and four have been announced as candidates for marshal since George W. Bradbury announced his candidacy for mayor on the Republican ticket.

Max Dickerson, a former member of the Lisbon council, and who is engaged in the transfer business has announced his candidacy for council on the Republican ticket, he being the first in this field.

The contest for Marshall will be a rather interesting one, for in addition to Row W. Lewton being a candidate to succeed himself, others who will enter the race for this office at the primary election will include George Groves, Robert Stacy, who last year was appointed traffic officer by Mayor Frank E. Albrecht, and Lon Boring.

These prospective candidates will make the race on the Republican ticket.

From the Democratic side no announcement has been made who will be candidates for the various village offices, although it is said that Mayor Albrecht will be a candidate to succeed himself.

ROAD WIDENING WORK PLANNED

Work of widening the Lisbon-Salem road will begin next week, it was announced today by County Supt. of State Highways, R. W. Kiltner.

The narrow brick part of this road just north of the Lisbon corporation line is to be widened eight feet, and the macadam section is also to have eight feet added to its width.

Slag for this work has been ordered and first cars are now due to be unloaded at Lisbon.

The County and the State Highway department share in the widening of this road, which will be in charge of Supt. Kiltner.

LOYALTY DAY IS TO BE OBSERVED

Sunday, March 22, has been designated as Loyalty Day by the congregation of the Presbyterian church of Lisbon, when an effort will be made to raise $13,000 from among the 700, odd members of the church.

The budget of $8,700 has been accepted by the session of the church as gifts for benevolences outside of the parish.

"We want every member of our church in their pew Sunday March 22," the Rev. P. W. Macaulay declared today. The new church budget begins April 1, and we want to make the forthcoming fiscal year the best in the history of the church."

DRIVING CLUB TO BANQUET HERE

At a meeting of the committee on arrangements, having in charge the annual dinner of the Lisbon Driving club held Thursday night, it was decided to hold the event the evening of March 31. Q. Who had the first department store? H. L. A.

A. The modern department store is an evolution of the village general store. Rowland H. Macy is credited with having conceived the department store idea in America and was probably the first in the world. He opened an establishment at 204 Sixth avenue, New York city, in 1858. At first it was devoted exclusively to fancy goods and gradually hats, dress goods, jewelry, toilet ware and other departments were added. For many years this was the only store in New York to carry soaps and perfumes. Wanamaker's in Philadelphia was opened in 1861 as Oak Hall. Marshall Field & Company was organized in Chicago in 1881.

Q. Can a fox climb a tree? A. A.

A. Foxes do not as a rule climb trees, but in some instances have been known to do so. Especially young ones often climb fences and poles in breeding pens.

Q. Are natural flower essences used in this country in the making of perfumes? P. J. T.

A. Fruit which is to be candied should be washed, peeled or pared if necessary and then cut or sliced. Drop fruit into boiling water for two or three minutes, drain well and cover with a syrup made by boiling together one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, with one cup of water. Boil fruit rapidly in this syrup for 15 minutes. Remove from the fire and allow to stand over night. The next morning boil for 10 or 15 minutes again. Repeat the heating and cooling for four to six days, according to how rapidly the water is drawn out and the syrup absorbed. When the fruit is transparent and bright lift it from the syrup and dry in the sun or in a cool oven.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is wrongfully condemned as taking part in the ill-fated rebellion of Monmouth against King James. With Jeremy Pitt he is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave and is bought by Colonel Bishop at the behest of Arabella, his niece. A Spanish galleon commanded by Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez slips into port under false colors and captures Bridgetown. Peter Blood saves the life of Mary Traill and sends Arabella and Mary to safety back of the town. He then leads his fellow rebels-convict on board Don Diego's ship and they capture it while the Spaniards are feasting in the city. When Colonel Bishop, whose limited military defense had failed, realizes that the ship no longer threatens the town he goes aboard, where he is greeted by Peter Blood, now captain of the Spanish galleon, with Jeremy Pitt, Wolverstone and Hagthorpe as his aides. Wolverstone is for hanging Colonel Bishop to the yard arm, but Blood threatens to quit their leadership unless his orders are obeyed.

He paused. There was no answer. But they stood hang-dog and half-mutinous before him, save Hagthorpe, who shrugged and smiled wearily. Mr. Blood resumed:

"Ye'll please to understand that aboard a ship there is one captain. So." He swung again to the startled Colonel. "Though I promise you your life, I must—as you've heard—keep you aboard as a hostage for the good behaviour of Governor Steed and what's left of the fort until we put to sea."

He lost his balance and tumbled into the sea.

"But . . ."

"There is no more to be said, gentlemen. My name is Blood—Captain Blood, if you please, of this ship the Cinco Llagas, taken as a prize of war from Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez, who is my prisoner aboard."

The officers went, though not without some hustling, regardless of the bellowings of Colonel Bishop, whose monstrous rage was fanned by terror at finding himself at the mercy of these men of whose cause to hate him he was very fully conscious. As they were running close to the headland east of the bay, Peter Blood returned to the Colonel, who, under guard and panic-stricken, had dejectedly resumed his seat on the coamings of the main hatch.

"Can ye swim, Colonel? It's a mercy for you I'm not by nature as bloodthirsty as some of my friends here. And it's the devil's own labor I've had to prevail upon them not to be vindictive."

It was the thought of Arabella Bishop that had urged him to mercy, and had led him to oppose the natural vindictiveness of his fellow-slaves until he had been in danger of precipitating a mutiny. It was entirely to the fact that the Colonel was her uncle, although he did not even begin to suspect such a cause, that he owed such mercy as was now being shown him. Colonel Bishop mastered himself, and rose. Peter Blood gave an order. A plank was run out over the gunwale, and lashed down.

"Just take a little walk, Colonel, darling," said a smooth, mocking voice behind him.

Still clinging, Colonel Bishop looked around in hesitation. He cursed them aloud venomously and incoherently, then loosed his hold and stepped out upon the plank. Three steps he took before he lost his balance and went tumbling into the green depths below.

When he came to the surface again, gasping for air, the Cinco Llagas was already some furlongs to leeward. But the roaring cheer of mocking valediction from the rebels-convict reached him across the water, to drive the iron of impotent rage deeper into his soul.

CHAPTER X

DON DIEGO

Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdes awoke, and with languid eyes in aching head, he looked round the cabin, which was flooded with sunlight from the square windows astern. Between the pain in his head and the confusion in his mind, he found coherent thought impossible.

He was beginning to torture his mind with conjecture, when the door opened, and to Don Diego's increasing mystification he beheld his best suit of clothes step into the cabin. The suit paused to close the door, then advanced toward the couch on which Don Diego was extended, and inside the suit came a tall, slender gentleman of about Don Diego's own height and shape. Seeing the wide, startled eyes of the Spaniard upon him, the gentleman lengthened his stride.

"Awake, eh?" said he in Spanish.

"Who the devil are you?" he asked. "And what the devil are you doing in my clothes and aboard my ship?"

"My name is Blood—Captain Peter Blood. This ship, like this handsome suit of clothes, is mine by right of conquest. Just as you, Don Diego, are my prisoner."

"And my son? What of my son?" he cried out. "He was in the boat that brought me aboard."

"Your son is safe; he and the boat's crew together with your gunner and his men are snugly in irons under hatches."

Don Diego sank back on the couch, his glittering dark eyes fixed upon the tawny face above him. He accepted the situation with the fortitude of a fatalist. The light blue eyes played over him like points of steel.

"You are not afraid to die, Don Diego?"

"The question is offensive, sir."

"Would you be willing, sir, to earn life and liberty—for yourself, your son, and the other Spaniards who are on board?"

"To earn it, do you say? Why, if the service you would propose is one that cannot hurt my honor. . . ."

"Could I be guilty of that?" protested the Captain. "I realize that even a pirate has his honor. The only man among us schooled in the art of navigation is fevered, delirious, in fact, as a result of certain ill-treatment he received ashore before we carried him away with us. I can handle a ship in action, and there are one or two men aboard who can assist me; but of the higher mysteries of seamanship and of the art of finding a way over the trackless wastes of ocean, we know nothing. We desire to make for the Dutch settlement of Curacao as straightly as possible. Will you pledge me your honor, if I release you upon parole, that you will navigate us thither? If so, we will release you and your surviving men upon arrival there."

Don Diego strode away in thought to the stern windows. "I accept," he said.

CHAPTER XI

FILIAL PIETY

By virtue of the pledge he had given, Don Diego de Espinosa enjoyed the freedom of the ship that had been his, and the navigation which he had undertaken was left entirely in his hands. He took his meals in the great cabin with Blood and the three officers elected to support him: Hagthorpe, Wolverstone, and Dyke.

That Don Diego was not playing fair it was impossible to suspect. Moreover, there was no conceivable reason why he should not. "If this wind holds," he had told them at supper after he had announced to them their position, "we should reach Curacao inside three days."

For three days the wind held, and yet when the third night descended upon them they had still made no landfall. Captain Blood uneasily mentioned it to Don Diego.

"It will be for to-morrow morning," he was answered with calm conviction.

Captain Blood passed on, content, and went to visit Jerry Pitt, his patient to whose condition Don Diego owed his chance of life. It was this same Jerry Pitt who cast the first thought of suspicion. A trip on deck for a breath of fresh air and his navigator's interest in the night heavens moved him to point out the North Star and to lay the position of the ship to Captain Blood. But Don Diego's easy explanation satisfied his captor.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Lord's Resurrection (Luke 24:36-53), for Sunday, March 15.

1. Why were the disciples expecting a resurrection?
2. Why was Jesus' tomb opened at all if he did not need to have it so in order to rise from it? What is the significance of the fact that the napkin was lying by itself in the tomb?
3. What is the effect of the habit of preaching the resurrection mainly on funeral occasions?
4. What to you is the strongest proof of the resurrection?
5. How does the fact of his resurrection make Christ more truly your Lord and Savior?
6. How did Paul know the truth about the resurrection of Christ?

CLERICUS SAYS: No other miracle in the Bible is pushed out into such publicity and surrounded and supported by so many and so varied lines of proof that converge in one luminous center and glowing and glorious fact. God left no uncertainties hanging around it to throw doubt upon it, no mists to obscure it, but placed it on a rock in the broad light of history.

Lesson Prayer.

We thank thee, dear Savior, that thou livest. We would see thee this morning in all thy beauty. May we hear thee speak to us, "Because I live, ye shall live also." May we trust thee and thy word, and in thee find light and life. In thy dear name we pray. Amen.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Lord of Life and Master of Death. Our Lord's Resurrection. International Lesson for March 15.—John 20:1-16.

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

The resurrection of Christ is the central column of historic Christianity on which it rests. Throw this down and the whole structure falls into ruins; makes this sure and the historic gospel stands. It is the splendor of the resurrection that scatters the darkness of the crucifix and kindles every page of the gospel with glory. No one saw Jesus rise, but many saw him risen. The gospel narratives pour upon this event a blaze of light such as illuminates no other miracle in the Bible. Inspiration set it in its central place and buttressed it with many infallible proofs so that it cannot be shaken.

The Empty Tomb.

The morning opens with the faithful women, who were last at the cross, first at the tomb. What were they doing there? They bought spices and brought them to anoint the body of Jesus. This loving act has immense significance as showing the state of mind of these women and of all the disciples after the crucifixion. They believed that Jesus was dead and had no hope or thought of his resurrection. They were utterly bewildered, scattered and crushed and supposed that all was over. They were in no condition of mind, then, to invent or imagine a resurrection, and any theory of fraud or vision or hallucination on the part of the disciples is a psychological impossibility. This empty tomb stands as a fact against all attempts to explain it away and it is the first link in the chain of facts that prove the reality of this event.

Peter and John.

The women hastened to spread the news of the empty tomb, and Peter and John were the first disciples to set about an investigation. They at first disbelieved the report as idle talk and probably Peter was the loudest of the scoffers, but presently he "arose and ran to the tomb." This discloses Peter exercising an honest spirit of inquiry. He did not assume that there could be no resurrection and settle the case by a theory spun from his own mind, but he set about finding out the facts. To this test must this question of the resurrection of Christ come. Those grave clothes were mute but convincing evidence to these disciples that Jesus was indeed risen, and their unbelief now gave way to mighty faith that mastered them to the end of their days. This is what came of candid investigation of this report about the empty tomb and the fact stands to this day as a confirmation of our faith.

Mary's Mistaken Tears

The other women departed, but Mary Magdalene stood outside the tomb, weeping and peering into the sepulchre. When asked by the white-robed angels why she wept, she answered, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him." Mary weeping at the empty tomb of her Lord, supposing mistakenly that his body had bene stolen away, presents a deeply pathetic and significant picture. She was weeping over what she thought was an infinite piece of mischief in the world. All her passionate faith and love and hope had been swept into utter confusion by this tragic disaster. Yet God was shaping all these events into a triumphant victory that shall fill eternity with its song. How often are our pudgments as mistaken and blind Mary was simply breaking her heart over the baseless imagination of her own mind. Are not our tears sometimes as mistaken and far astray? Are we not living in God's world and is he not causing all things to work together for our good? Is not the grave itself but the green mountain top of a far new world? Did our blinded eyes and unbelieving hearts but know the truth about our dead, our tears might be seen to be as mistaken and baseless as the tears of Mary at the empty tomb of her risen Lord. Even as she wept, Jesus was revealed to her and her tears of grief were turned to tears of jubilant joy.

Many Infallible Proofs

The resurrection of Christ is attested by many infallible proofs. Many eyewitnesses combine their testimony, Paul adds the weight of his logical mind and personal investigation on the ground of the facts in the case (Gal. 1:18), and history confirms the event by the mighty monument of the Christian church and of Christendom which it has erected over his empty tomb. "This thing was not done in a corner," but in the full light of day. The divine Person of Christ matches and proves this epochal event, and the event equally proves his divine Person. It is a morning sun that dissipates the shadows of death and brings life and immortality to light. It fulfills all the dreams of men of a city which hath foundations, eternal in the heavens. It greatens our life with immeasurable worth and grand hopes; it satisfies the infinite longingings of the human soul for more life, life that will be fuller, sweeter, richer, even life ofrevermore. And so we join with the accent of conviction and sincerity in the most ancient creed of the church: "I believe in Jesus Christ our Lord, who suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried, the third day he rose again from the dead."

HOME TRAINING

The Safeguard of a Good Reputation.

A wealthy depositor in a bank had among other valuables a large package of United States bonds in the safe which he missed one day and reported the fact to the president of the bank.

The only person who had the keys to the safe was the cashier—a young man in whom the public had implicit confidence and whose reputation for honesty and high ideals had never been questioned.

The president called the cashier and told him of the loss. The cashier positive that no case against his integrity could be established—calmly replied to his superior officer, "The owner is laboring under a delusion of some kind. There are only two alternatives, either he is mistaken or I am a thief. It is for you to decide and I should be pleased to have you make your decision now."

The president replied, "I have every confidence to believe that you are honest. Your associates are ready to swear in your behalf as to your integrity. I am absolutely certain that it would have been impossible for you to have taken the bonds. We shall wait a little while—something may develop that will help us to the truth. Give yourself no concern."

Time did clear up the situation for it was found that the owner had sold the bonds and had forgotten about the transaction.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

One third of the total Moslem population of the world is in India.

The famous Indian poet, Tagore, will come to America in May to attend the centenary celebration of the American Unitarian Association.

The Irish Free State parliament has adopted a resolution taking from the courts the right to grant divorce. This is in line with the doctrine of the Roman Catholic church.

Baptist Temple, Rochester, N. Y., recently laid the cornerstone for a fourteen story building. Bonds are being sold to finance the enterprise to the value of $800,000.

Young Men's Christian Associations are now established in 18 foreign countries with 384 associations and 125,000 members. There are 559 native secretaries and 183 American secretaries.

A $1,000,000 memorial to William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, is to be erected on Denmark Hill, London. It will contain educational buildings and lodging accommodations, and have a great tower that will carry a beacon light.

A gift of $1,500,000 has been made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the restoration of the Library of the Imperial University of Toyko, which was destroyed during the earthquake, together with 800,000 volumes.

France has 38,000,000 inhabitants. The Catholic church claims 8,000,000; All Protestant denominations have 600,000 members. So it remains that there are 30,000,000 people without any kind of religious training or influence.

An outright donation of $225,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and a donation of $225,000 more conditional on the Northern Baptist Convention's raising $4,000,000 by April 30 to bring its budget for the current fiscal year up to $6,166,000, the same as in the year previous, have just been announced. Mr. Rockefeller recently gave $400,000 toward liquidating Baptist missionary debts.

Important excavations in the vicinity of the city of Ur of the Chaldeans are now being carried on by the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania. Great mounds of sand and mud now cover the buildings on the site where one of the greatest empires of ancient times stood, and where Abraham lived before he began his wanderings. Indisputable evidences of a high order of civilization have been found. One of the authentic pieces of evidence was a marble foundation tablet from a temple erected to the goddess Winkhursag by King Aannipadda, dating back to about 4300 B. C. This tablet is the oldest dated document ever found and it proves the historic existence of a dynasty hitherto commonly regarded as mythical, and gives a date, if not an authorship, for a very remarkable series of art objects. The discoveries not only throw new light on the Bible by illustrating incidents and customs of the time, but they also have reclaimed a part of pre-historic times by showing that what was tradition, really is history.

The United States is the only large country whose exports are greater than before the war.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in question form to church editor; answers will appear in later issue).

1. Can a school grow if teachers are not Christians?

It may grow in members, but it cannot grow in efficiency. The purpose of religious education is the development of Christian character, nothing less. Christianity is caught rather than taught. In my judgment he who is not a Christian should not be permitted to teach in the Sunday school. It should be understood that perfection of life is not required, but attitude or trend of life is a fundamental matter.

2. How may funds be secured for publicity purposes of the church?

An allowance may be voted by the official board as a part of the church budget. The adult Bible classes may sponsor the church publicity; special envelopes may be used at regular intervals for the needed funds; a special publicity committee may be appointed with power to secure funds, by an agreement with the official board, all above a certain amount of the loose offering in the regular Sunday church offerings may be used for publicity work, this fact being frequently announced before the offering is taken; the Women's Association with other organizations may unite in sharing in the expenses of publicity.

3. Are double sessions successful and practical?

They have been made pre-eminently so. This makes possible attendance at church service on the part of many parents of smaller children. It also provides an opportunity for training in worship for those very grades that seldom attend the service of worship. The disadvantage, of course, is in debarring teachers from the regular service of worship.

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during This Critical Time—Benefited Greatly

Baltimore, Maryland.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

Manager Speaker, of Indians, Denies He'll Quit Playing Job

RUNYON SAYS

BY DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International News Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, March 14.

OLD TIMERS will tell you that Syracuse Tommy Ryan, once middleweight champion of the world, was one of the greatest fighters they ever saw.

The writer encountered Ryan in Jack Dempsey's new gymnasium one afternoon. He is rather short, stocky built, sturdy looking. His face is sunbrowned to the color of leather with old wrinkles around his eyes.

Syracuse Tommy has a small place out in Hollywood. He works hard in his garden and among his trees every day. He is constantly breathing in the God-given California ozone. That is why he looks so healthy.

His nose is somewhat spread, his ears are ever so slightly "tinned." These are the only marks of many desperate ring battles, covering a period of about twenty years in the ring.

SYRACUSE TOMMY'S right name is given in the records as Joseph Youngs. His features are distinctive Hebraic. Oldtimers often argue as to his nationality. Ryan says his mother was English, his father, French.

He is fifty-four. He doesn't look it. He has the appearance of a man in his midforties. That's what California ozone does for you.

Syracuse Tommy made plenty of money in the ring and KEPT IT. He is accounted wealthy. He added to his savings by investment in his home town, Syracuse. He has increased his bank account by investments out here.

SYRACUSE TOMMY was called a SMART fighter. He has proved it by his conduct and progress AFTER quitting the ring. Most old fighters wind up broke.

SYRACUSE TOMMY was watching Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, work out in Jack Dempsey's gymnasium. While Walker was being rubbed down in his dressing room, Ryan visited him and looked him over carefully.

He said Mickey was about his size when he was fighting.

"I never in my ring career weighed over 150 pounds stripped," said Ryan. He now weighs about 175 pounds. His dark hair is only lightly tinged with gray.

Away back in '94, Ryan beat Mysterious Billy Smith, who claimed the welterweight title, in a bout at Minneapolis. Ryan was recognized as the welterweight champion. They met again at Coney Island in 95. The police stopped the bout in the eighteenth round, and it was called a draw.

IN '96, KID McCOY knocked out Ryan in fifteen rounds at Maspeth, L. I.

The writer has read many accounts of this battle as an instance in which Ryan was "out-smarted." Some historians have referred to it as a "double crossing."

McCoy had been one of Ryan's

"Nobody In Outfit Is Good Enough to Bump Me," Says Tris

Believes he Has Only Himself to Blame for Indifferent Showing in 1924, But Declares he Has Remedy; Expects Results This Year.

By Davis J. Walsh

LAKEWOOD, Fla., March 14 — "There's nobody on this ball club good enough to replace me."

In these not at all uncertain terms did Tris Speaker declare himself today on rumored possibility that the great outfielder, having perhaps seen better days, was preparing for a gradual self-elimination from the lineup of the Cleveland Indians. The move in question is furtherest from Speaker's thoughts.

He believes he has no one but himself to blame for his indifferent work in 1924 and intimates rather strongly that the same thing held true for the Indians, almost in toto. One notable exception was Jim Joe Edwards, the left handed gent, who sprained a careless knee.

For him Speaker furnishes a ready alibi. For himself, none. He staked himself to his worst performances since entering the majors in 1907, in spite of the fact that he hit .344. He, however, drove in only 65 runs as against 130 for 1923 and only two other American league outfielders, Ruth and Goslin, made more errors.

He was a semi-flop but he thinks he knows the remedy. So were some of his manly athletes and he has the cure for that also.

At the outset of the present training campaign each athlete was in receipt of a letter of admonition from President E. S. Barnard informing all and severally that the Cleveland Indians were a business institution, not a band wagon. It is understood the boys have decided to take the hint.

This is another year, of course, but Speaker can not forget what might have been.

"The disability of Uhle and Edwards cost us at least 30 ball games," he told the writer. "These would have made us finish one, two or three. Edwards twisted his knee after winning five games and was useless until September. Uhle just didn't round into condition. He won 26 games in 1923 and exactly eight last year. There was nothing the matter with his arm and there never has been. He just couldn't last the full nine innings.

"Both men now are well, able bodied and ambitious to a fault."

Of his own case, Speaker says nothing and says it eloquently. It has been noted, however, that he has eliminated the golf and hunting excursions that claimed his attention off the field in other years and not only is working for self advancement but that of others as a good manager should. It is claimed that Speaker once was a manager on the ball field only; that he went out, played great ball and expected his men to follow him. Some times they did.

As for the club itself, it is like an old house that has been given the benefit of a job of shingling. Not foolproof but rain worthy. For example, George Burns will be reinforced at first base by Bob Knode, ex-Michigan university youth who hit well for Birmingham last year. "Chick" Fewster. Heavier than ever before will play second base but may have to show cause to Joe Klugman, former Dodger, who is back for more. Joe Sewell, the best shortstop in the League, is self sufficient but Rube Lutzke at third base must either hit in a more superior manner or give way to Fred Spurgeon, product of New Orleans.

Riggs Stephenson has been wafted to the outfield in a last minute attempt to win some games with his hitting without losing more through his five-thumbed activities afield. He will be one of eight men trying for right field, Speaker and Charley Jamieson, perforce, playing the remaining two positions.

The eight candidates are:—Stephenson, Cliff Lee, former Phillies Pirate and Red; Homer Summa, former regular who has lost caste; Harvey Hendrick, ex-Yankee; Carr Smith, from Washington in the Coveleskie deal; Pat McNulty, four years with the club and still trying; L. J. Wyatt, from Terre Haute, and F. Elchrodut, from Spartansburg. Lee is the more highly esteemed at the moment, particularly if he continues to hit.

Glenn Myatt, a fine catcher, wants to work in all the games this year and probably will, although Luke Sewell is an adequate substitute.

In addition to Uhle and Edwards, those favored as regular pitchers are Sherry Smith, declared by Speaker to have been the best in the league last year; Joe Shaute, Byron Speece, another memento of the Coveleskie deal; the aged Benny Karr from Atlanta and a few more to be selected from Dutch Levsen and J. W. Miller, from Terre Haute; Watson Clark from Peoria.

Luther Roy, from Chattanooga, and Monroe Mitchell from Memphis. The latter, however, has contrived to get himself a sore arm and probably will be sent hence at an early moment.

Senior Teams Class League Cage Winners

Boys Defeat Freshmen and Girls Triumph Over Juniors.

Senior basketball teams scored two victories in interclass league contests yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

The Girls downed the Junior lassies, 18 to 9, while the boys won a hard fought battle from the Freshmen, 20 to 18.

The boys' game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, the Freshies getting away to a lead at the quarter, 7 to 5. In the second period, the battle continued along similar lines although the count was deadlocked, 10-10, at the end of the half.

The Seniors cinched the contest in the third period when they piled up points the yearlings could not overcome, with Howard figuring in the scoring. Howard scored five field goals and one foul while Owens, Barnes and Woessner also played well for the winners. Kimes, Bloor, Gibbons and Curran starred for the first year squad.

The Senior girls outplayed their Junior opponents during most of the game. The score at the half was 6 to 2. In the third period, the Juniors were at the top form and came within two points of tying the score. In the final period the Seniors put on their big drive and sailed away to a decisive victory. TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Reds Trim Orioles.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14. — The Baltimore Orioles, six time champions of the International league, were humbled at Eustis yesterday by the Reds, who seemed to have found their batting eyes, lost when they played the world champions Thursday. Friday's score was 16 to 10 and in justice to the Baltimore crew it may be said it was their first game of the season. Both teams played ragged ball.

Tribe Rookie Shows Form.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—Watson Clark, Mississippi college southpaw, pitched in championship form for three innings yesterday, although the Cleveland Indians lost to the Indianapolis Association team, 9 to 8, in a ten inning game. Speaker used four twirlers, while three pitched for Indianapolis.

Blouin in Action.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 14.—Jimmy Blouin and his famed Chicago bowling team, going into action in the A. B. C., five men clashes as a member of the famous P. L. Wethe team of Chicago, stood out today as the newest stars in the national tournament bowling contest here.

The Chicago outfit amassed the grand total of 2,839 and assumed leadership in the five men division.

Berlenbach Stops Siki

NEW YORK, Mar. 14—Paul Berlenbach, "knockout king," today had increased his long string of knockouts is the result of stopping battling Siki the singular Senegalese, in the tenth round of a twelve round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

At no time did Siki show any of the ability which enabled him to knock out Georges Carpentier. His dangerous right hand was ineffective.

Berlenbach pummelled him about the ring with vicious lefts and rights. Only Siki's gameness enabled him to keep going as long as the tenth round when the referee called a halt when Berlenbach had hung him on the ropes in almost a helpless state.

Siki was a sorry figure when the end came. His left eye was almost entirely closed and his mouth, ears and nose were cut and bleeding.

Buy Pennsylvania Oils Like You Buy Diamonds

You don't buy a diamond just because the diamond is the most precious gem. Instead, you buy a flawless diamond—a diamond that has been so masterfully cut that it reflects a flame of color.

Similarly, don't buy various motor oils, made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude just because Pennsylvania is the finest crude. For example; FREEDOM Perfect is not only made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude; in addition, it is refined with an experience that has come with forty-five years of specializing in the refining of Paraffin base crudes.

Because of this, FREEDOM Perfect maintains its original lubricating and high heat resisting properties; frequent crank case changes are not necessary. Your dealer has FREEDOM Perfect—insist upon it.

Have You Read "OIL FACTS?"
Twenty pages of pictures and interesting information—two thirds devoted entirely to you and your car. How your car operates, illustrated by means of a pencil and a piece of paper. sparring partners early in McCoy's pugilistic career. It is said he was very sore at Ryan because Ryan used to give him severe trouncings in the gymnasium, that he plotted carefully to Ryan's undoing.

The usual story is that he wrote Ryan a letter asking for a bout, so he could get a little money and suggesting to Ryan that he—McCoy—would be a "soft mark."

RYAN says the truth of the matter is that there was no soreness between them whatever; that they were good friends.

"I met McCoy on Broadway one day just after he had come back from England," Syracuse Tommy told the writer, "McCoy said he was broke, and that if he could get a match with me he could get hold of some money.

"I told him I didn't think anybody would put the match on, but he said he thought the promoters at Maspeth would do it, and I told him to go ahead and see what he could do. I thought no more about it until I got a letter from the promoters saying McCoy had told them I would meet him and offering to put the bout on.

"McCoy was much bigger than me, but I recalled him from the gymnasium days and I thought I could easily beat him, so I took the match.

"I didn't train a lick for it. I just took off my coat and went into the ring. If there was any double-crossing, I double-crossed myself by not training."

FINAL EDITION

Yes, Mr. President.

1,000 Washingtons.

Shooting the Editor.

Ideas, Not Neckties.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

If President Coolidge had time to travel through the country and if the people would tell him what they really think, which they never do, he would realize that he has lost hundreds of thousands of personal friends and hurt the Republican party by allowing General Mitchell to be humiliated and demoted to "save the face" of Weeks, who was put into the cabinet by influences with which President Coolidge is not well acquainted.

The president, of course, does not know the part played by the battleship builders and other big business in building of cabinets.

He apparently does not realize that the people of this country are at least 98 per cent against Weeks and in favor of Brigadier General Mitchell in the aircraft controversy.

It is a disadvantage to be surrounded by individuals that bow and scrape and always say, "Yes, Mr. President."

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the first Chinese republic, is dead.

Many centuries will roll over his grave in old China, and still there will be no real republic in that land of conservatism, gentleness, mis-directed scholarship.

You do not create a republic by changing governments, put out one man and putting in another, calling the new government "a republic." You must have people that want a republic, believe in equality, and know what a republic is.

Sun Yat Sen, called the George Washington of China, deserves praise as a brave, sincere man.

But a thousand George Washingtons could not have made a republic of China. Washington had Cromwell back of him, and people of the Cromwell type to fight with him in New England. He fought with part of Cromwell's strength.

Jefferson and the others had back of them the men and ideas that swept out the French kings, and the encyclopaedists that cleared the ground for democratic government, by preparing men's minds.

Sun Yat Sen was brave and eloquent. When doctors of the Rockefeller institution, reaching into distant China, told him he was dying of cancer, he said, "I know it." Sun Yat Sen performed the first major surgical operation ever seen in a Chinese hospital.

While he was building his republican movement, he was captured by a group of the emperor's soldiers. They were careful not to harm him, for they wanted "the big reward" to be paid only if Sun Yat Sen was taken alive. For a dead Sun Yat Sen the reward would be smaller. The big reward was to pay for the pleasure of being able to torture him, according to the Chinese custom of a few years ago, before putting him to death. He argued with his captors and they joined his revolutionary party.

Hugo Bettaur, who published a villainous immoral magazine in Vienna, is shot by Otto Rostock, who explains that he meant to kill the criminal publisher to "arouse the moral sentiment of Vienna," whose young people are degraded by such literature as Bettaur published.

Magazines such as Bettaur published are more a reflection of conditions than a cause of conditions. Still some good has been accomplished even if Bettaur himself, still alive, should be the only one "shocked into a sense of moral responsibility."

There are in the United States a few publications that might be improved by some emphatic action, although we haven't things quite bad enough yet to call for the Otto Rostock remedy.

Clothiers gathered in solemn conclave decided that the "real gentleman" must have a different necktie for every shirt, thus "demonstrating his artistic taste and his exclusiveness." Exclusiveness, doubtless, is desirable. But if each young American, for each factory shirt and necktie that he would like to have, would develop a real working idea, the country would be better off than with every necktie factory working full blast.

A man known only by his clothes belongs in the parrot house.

At Council Bluffs, Jasper McDonald, negro, 27 years old, pleadss guilty to criminal assault, and within an hour is sentenced to life imprisonment. That is better than a lynching, because of the effect on public opinion, and respect for law. There is unfortunately the possibility of escape.

Why not sentence such criminals first of all to a surgical operation that would forever prevent repetition of the crime, and after that a reasonable sentence at hard labor? Such punishment might be a deterrent.

THREE CHILDREN SLAIN WITH AXE, FOURTH NEAR DEATH; FATHER ACCUSED

Mother is in Serious Condition From Shock Following Triple Tragedy in Kansas City Home.

WOUNDED SLAYER BELIEVED INSANE

Man, Neighbors Say, Crashed Axe Against Tots' Skulls After Chasing His Wife Around House.

KANSAS CITY, March 14.—Three children were slain with an axe today, a fourth is in the hospital and is expected to die, Mrs. M. T. Gibson is in a serious condition from shock and police arrested Gibson, 35-year-old garage man, who, they say, was responsible for the triple tragedy.

Murderer Fell Down Stairs.

Gibson was found at the foot of the stairs in the cellar. He had tried to rise and fell down the stairs.

It is believed he got his own wound when he fell on the axe. At General hospital it was said he was in a serious condition.

Gibson, believed insane, was chasing his wife around their home in North Kansas City with an axe, according to neighbors. As she eluded him he crashed the axe against the skulls of the children.

C. of C. Petition For Water on Two Trains Granted

Drinking water has been placed on two C. & P. division passenger trains, through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce.

Complaints that train No. 422, eastbound, leaving here at 4:54 p. m., and train No. 423, westbound, arriving here at 9:37 a. m., were without drinking water for passengers, were received a few weeks ago.

The matter was referred to H. H. Gerrignes, Cleveland, superintendent of the C. & P. division, with a request that water tanks be installed. A communication was received today stating that arrangements have been made to grant the request.

SEVEN KILLED, 24 WOUNDED IN ELECTION RIOTS

Police Raid Communist Gathering in Germany.

4,000 PARTICIPATE

First Outbreak in Campaign to Name Ebert's Successor.

HALLE, Germany, Mar. 14—A Communist pre-election meeting that developed into a gun battle when police broke it up resulted today in the killing of seven persons and the wounding of 24. Six of the injured four of them policemen, suffered wounds that doctors said doubtless would prove fatal. The Communists were meeting in preparation for the coming Presidential campaign.

Among the dead was one woman.

Thousands jammed the meeting hall where Ernest Thaelmann, Communist candidate for President, and other speakers delivered inflammatory speeches.

The police had permitted the meeting only on condition that two English and one French Communist, who had been scheduled to make addresses, would ot be permitted to speak. The trouble started when one of the English Reds started to deliver an oration despite the police injunction.

At the height of the rioting shots were fired from the gallery. The police returned the fire and the disorders became widespread. Police estimated that 4,000 Communists participated in the outbreak.

Halle is an industrial city and a hotbed of Communism in Germany. The city often has been the scene of bloody class war. After the revolution the aide of Bolshevism here was stemmed only by the genius of the leadership of the late President Ebert.

Launch Campaign For Mingo Junction Train Connections

For the accommodation of C. & P. division patrons, the Chamber of Commerce has launched a campaign for better connections with the Cincinnati and Columbus trains at Mingo Junction.

The chamber has written to C. C. Schadd, Cleveland, superintendent of the River division of the C. & P. railroad, asking that the river train, due here at 6:38 p. m., be held at Mingo Junction for a few minutes to make connections with the east bound Panhandle train, due there at 4:58. It is claimed that the C. & P. train often leaves just as the Panhandle train reaches the station.

This proposal was discussed by members of the Chamber's transportation committee and H. H. Garrignes, road superintenedut, at a conference here this week. The railroad company officials have promised to consider the request.

SOLONS DECIDE TO RESURFACE MULBERRY ST. THIS SUMMER

Factions Favoring and Opposing Improvement Speak.

Steps are Taken to Collect Delinquent Assessments.

Despite a protest signed by property holders, representing approximately 1,050 feet frontage on the thoroughfare, city council, last night, set legislative wheels in motion for the resurfacing of Mulberry street, this summer.

Representatives of opposing factions appeared before the solons. A petition, protesting the improvement, was presented by E. F. Cunningham, Mulberry street grocer, who is leading the opposition. He declared that despite the vote taken at a public mass meeting held in East End last week most of the property holders are opposed to the expense of the proposed improvement, since the sanitary sewer assessments are now payable.

Resolution Is Enacted.

Frank Chambers, Mulberry street merchant, urged that the street be improved to complete the new route to the down town district, which would eliminate the steep Pennsylvania avenue grades. He asserted that the majority of the property holders favored the improvement provided the street car tracks were removed and that the cost of the resurfacing did not exceed the estimated $3.27 per runing foot.

A resolution, declaring it necessary to improve the street by resurfacing,

Josephus Daniels, In Peace Appeal, Names "Big Three"

CLEVELAND, March 14—Andrew Mellon, Herbert Hoover and William M. Butler form a "big business triumvirate" in the nation's affairs today which no other influence can match in power, and when they speak, the nation can do no more than to sit up and listen.

This was the outlook of Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, when he urged world peace in an address before the Cleveland city club at noon today.

"Unless the influences which guide these three men are enlisted by the advocates of peace, efforts towards a world court will be prolonged," he declared.

"Big business" was cited as the driving and potent influence in all affairs of the United States. Churches, lawyers, politicians and newspapers were described as having been shorn of potency, and as influenced only by the "triumvirate of business."

Plea for Peace Will be Made Here By Judge Allen

A plea for international peace will be voiced by Supreme Court Justice Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, when she appears at the First Methodist Episcopal church tonight under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Her subject will be "The Supreme Challenge."

Miss Allen will go to Columbiana for an address Sunday morning and will appear at East Palestine, Sunday afternoon. Her final address in the county will be at the Methodist church, Salem, Sunday evening.

Midland-state Line Highway Controversy Settlement Expected

The Pennsylvania state highway department, traction and railroad companies will settle the controversy over the improvement of the Midland road, east of the state line, within the near future, it was indicated today.

The Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from W. H. Connell, engineering executive, and deputy secretary of Highways, Harrisburg, stating that the Highway department has been in communication recently with officials of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, with regard to a conference.

This conference will likely be held within the next two weeks at which time an effort will be made to reach some agreement regarding the cost of the proposed road between Midland and the state line. The state is ready to proceed with this improvement as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made.

COOLIDGE ENDS WARREN FIGHT; SEEKS ANOTHER MAN FOR PLACE

WORD GIVEN OUT

President and G. O. P. Leader Confer at White House.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Coolidge has decided to abandon his fight to name Charles B. Warren as attorney general, it was learned this afternoon.

While the Warren appointment will remain before the senate to meet a second and unavoidable rejection, the president now is engaged in selecting another nominee to head the department of justice.

Executive Accepts Defeat.

This was the word revealed to senatorial leaders following a hurried conference at noon between the president and Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, the Republican leader.

The president was prevailed upon to accept defeat in his drive to place Warren in his cabinet, it was learned, only after every recognized Republican leader in the senate assured him the nomination could not be confirmed. The president was finally persuaded to accept the situation and to agree to submit a new name to the senate early next week.

Five Under Consideration.

Among the men now under consideration for the appointment, it was said, were Justice Wallace McCamant of Oregon, who placed the president in nomination at Chicago in 1920 for the vice presidency; Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, of the Massachusetts supreme court; Silas Strawn, the Chicago lawyer; Solicitor General James M. Beck, and Senator Guy T. Goff of West Virginia. FOSTER PARENTS ARRESTED IN INVESTIGATION INTO DEATH OF CHICAGO'S "MILLIONAIRE ORPHAN"

CHICAGO, Mar. 14—The investigation into the death of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan" took another startling turn today when Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Shepherd, foster parents of young McClintock, were seized by detectives from the office of Robert E. Crowe, United States Attorney.

The Shepherd's were taken into custody after new charges had been made by Dr. C. C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences.

Face to face with Faiman in Crowe's office, Shepherd said:

"I do not know that man."

"You're a liar," Faiman flashed back.

Shepherd Denies Charges.

Throughout an hour's questioning that followed, Shepherd refused to admit any of the charges made by Dr. Faiman and he was taken to a hotel under heavy guard. Mrs. Shepherd was sent to her home in Kenilworth.

Shepherd denied that he had attended bacteriology classes in the science school; that he was taught by Faiman how to use a microscope and how to identify typhoid bacilli; that he took a letter from the school files in which he made application for courses in the school, and, after taking the letter, laid $50 on the table for Faiman; that he had anything to do with tubes of typhus culture which Faiman charges were missed shortly after he quit attending classes.

While Crowe has not committed himself, it seemed certain those close to the investigators said, that the evidence would be taken before the grand jury at once, possibly today. In the meantime, Crowe was to confer with Attorney General Oscar Chalstrom, who came to Chicago from Springfield in response to a telephone conversation with the state's attorney.

Bar Prisoners' Counsel

Attempts were to be made by Edwin Hedrick, counsel for Shepherd to the state's attorneys office, but was refused permission to talk to him or even to see him after they left the Shepherd home in Kenilworth.

When officers returned later and took Mrs. Shepherd into custody, Robert Stoll, also of counsel for Shepherd, and Rev. C. C. Naumann, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church at Evanston accompanied her.

Throughout the grilling, Mrs. Shepherd was cool and calm as was her husband. Both refused to give out any information except to deny everything that was charged.

Lie Is Passed

Detectives from the state's attorney's office today were searching the city for post graduate students of the science school who were expected by the state to testify that Shepherd did attend bacteriology classes and all telephone calls from the Shepherd home also were being checked. This was being done to determine whether Shepherd had any communication with Dr. Faiman, with John P. Marchand, salesman for the school, who alleged that he talked with Shepherd about taking courses in the school. with Dr. George Fosberg, who said before the coroner's jury that Shepherd paid him $50 to give him information on the effects and how to trace poisons and typhoid germs.

Marchand again identified Shepherd early today and Shepherd said:

Like Dr. Faiman, Marchand replied: "You're a liar."

Sensational Testimony.

Dr. Faiman, who began his testimony Thursday as a reluctant witness, is now a willing witness and his testimony has provided sensation after sensation. The climax came when he described in detail the private lessons in disease culture which he himself gave to Shepherd.

"We worked with a microscope," Dr. Faiman said, "and one of the first things I had to teach Mr. Shepherd

Ideas, Not Neckties.

If President Coolidge had time to travel through the country and if the people would tell him what they really think, which they never do, he would realize that he has lost hundreds of thousands of personal friends and hurt the Republican party by allowing General Mitchell to be humiliated and demoted to "save the face" of Weeks, who was put into the cabinet by influences with which President Coolidge is not well acquainted.

The president, of course, does not know the part played by the battleship builders and other big business in building of cabinets.

He apparently does not realize that the people of this country are at least 98 per cent against Weeks and in favor of Brigadier General Mitchell in the aircraft controversy.

It is a disadvantage to be surrounded by individuals that bow and scrape and always say, "Yes, Mr. President."

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the first Chinese republic, is dead.

Many centuries will roll over his grave in old China, and still there will be no real republic in that land of conservatism, gentleness, mis-directed scholarship.

You do not create a republic by changing governments, put out one man and putting in another, calling the new government "a republic." You must have people that want a republic, believe in equality, and know what a republic is.

Sun Yat Sen, called the George Washington of China, deserves praise as a brave, sincere man.

But a thousand George Washingtons could not have made a republic of China. Washington had Cromwell back of him, and people of the Cromwell type to fight with him in New England. He fought with part of Cromwell's strength.

Jefferson and the others had back of them the men and ideas that swept out the French kings, and the encyclopaedists that cleared the ground for democratic government, by preparing men's minds.

Sun Yat Sen was brave and eloquent. When doctors of the Rockefeller institution, reaching into distant China, told him he was dying of cancer, he said, "I know it." Sun Yat Sen performed the first major surgical operation ever seen in a Chinese hospital.

While he was building his republican movement, he was captured by a group of the emperor's soldiers. They were careful not to harm him, for they wanted "the big reward" to be paid only if Sun Yat Sen was taken alive. For a dead Sun Yat Sen the reward would be smaller. The big reward was to pay for the pleasure of being able to torture him, according to the Chinese custom of a few years ago, before putting him to death. He argued with his captors and they joined his revolutionary party.

Hugo Bettaur, who published a villainous immoral magazine in Vienna, is shot by Otto Rostock, who explains that he meant to kill the criminal publisher to "arouse the moral sentiment of Vienna," whose young people are degraded by such literature as Bettaur published.

Magazines such as Bettaur published are more a reflection of conditions than a cause of conditions. Still some good has been accomplished even if Bettaur himself, still alive, should be the only one "shocked into a sense of moral responsibility."

There are in the United States a few publications that might be improved by some emphatic action, although we haven't things quite bad enough yet to call for the Otto Rostock remedy.

Clothiers gathered in solemn conclave decided that the "real gentleman" must have a different necktie for every shirt, thus "demonstrating his artistic taste and his exclusiveness." Exclusiveness, doubtless, is desirable. But if each young American, for each factory shirt and necktie that he would like to have, would develop a real working idea, the country would be better off than with every necktie factory working full blast.

A man known only by his clothes belongs in the parrot house.

At Council Bluffs, Jasper McDonald, negro, 27 years old, pleadss guilty to criminal assault, and within an hour is sentenced to life imprisonment. That is better than a lynching, because of the effect on public opinion, and respect for law. There is unfortunately the possibility of escape.

Why not sentence such criminals first of all to a surgical operation that would forever prevent repetition of the crime, and after that a reasonable sentence at hard labor? Such punishment might be a deterrent.

THREE CHILDREN SLAIN WITH AXE, FOURTH NEAR DEATH; FATHER ACCUSED

Mother is in Serious Condition From Shock Following Triple Tragedy in Kansas City Home.

WOUNDED SLAYER BELIEVED INSANE

Man, Neighbors Say, Crashed Axe Against Tots' Skulls After Chasing His Wife Around House.

KANSAS CITY, March 14.—Three children were slain with an axe today, a fourth is in the hospital and is expected to die, Mrs. M. T. Gibson is in a serious condition from shock and police arrested Gibson, 35-year-old garage man, who, they say, was responsible for the triple tragedy.

Gibson was found at the foot of the stairs in the cellar. He had tried to rise and fell down the stairs.

It is believed he got his own wound when he fell on the axe. At General hospital it was said he was in a serious condition.

Drinking water has been placed on two C. & P. division passenger trains, through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce.

Complaints that train No. 422, eastbound, leaving here at 4:54 p. m., and train No. 423, westbound, arriving here at 9:37 a. m., were without drinking water for passengers, were received a few weeks ago.

The matter was referred to H. H. Gerrignes, Cleveland, superintendent of the C. & P. division, with a request that water tanks be installed. A communication was received today stating that arrangements have been made to grant the request.

SEVEN KILLED, 24 WOUNDED IN ELECTION RIOTS

Police Raid Communist Gathering in Germany.

4,000 PARTICIPATE

First Outbreak in Campaign to Name Ebert's Successor.

HALLE, Germany, Mar. 14—A Communist pre-election meeting that developed into a gun battle when police broke it up resulted today in the killing of seven persons and the wounding of 24. Six of the injured four of them policemen, suffered wounds that doctors said doubtless would prove fatal. The Communists were meeting in preparation for the coming Presidential campaign.

Among the dead was one woman.

Thousands jammed the meeting hall where Ernest Thaelmann, Communist candidate for President, and other speakers delivered inflammatory speeches.

The police had permitted the meeting only on condition that two English and one French Communist, who had been scheduled to make addresses, would ot be permitted to speak. The trouble started when one of the English Reds started to deliver an oration despite the police injunction.

At the height of the rioting shots were fired from the gallery. The police returned the fire and the disorders became widespread. Police estimated that 4,000 Communists participated in the outbreak.

Halle is an industrial city and a hotbed of Communism in Germany. The city often has been the scene of bloody class war. After the revolution the aide of Bolshevism here was stemmed only by the genius of the leadership of the late President Ebert.

Launch Campaign For Mingo Junction Train Connections

For the accommodation of C. & P. division patrons, the Chamber of Commerce has launched a campaign for better connections with the Cincinnati and Columbus trains at Mingo Junction.

The chamber has written to C. C. Schadd, Cleveland, superintendent of the River division of the C. & P. railroad, asking that the river train, due here at 6:38 p. m., be held at Mingo Junction for a few minutes to make connections with the east bound Panhandle train, due there at 4:58. It is claimed that the C. & P. train often leaves just as the Panhandle train reaches the station.

This proposal was discussed by members of the Chamber's transportation committee and H. H. Garrignes, road superintenedut, at a conference here this week. The railroad company officials have promised to consider the request.

SOLONS DECIDE TO RESURFACE MULBERRY ST. THIS SUMMER

Factions Favoring and Opposing Improvement Speak.

Steps are Taken to Collect Delinquent Assessments.

Despite a protest signed by property holders, representing approximately 1,050 feet frontage on the thoroughfare, city council, last night, set legislative wheels in motion for the resurfacing of Mulberry street, this summer.

Representatives of opposing factions appeared before the solons. A petition, protesting the improvement, was presented by E. F. Cunningham, Mulberry street grocer, who is leading the opposition. He declared that despite the vote taken at a public mass meeting held in East End last week most of the property holders are opposed to the expense of the proposed improvement, since the sanitary sewer assessments are now payable.

Resolution Is Enacted.

Frank Chambers, Mulberry street merchant, urged that the street be improved to complete the new route to the down town district, which would eliminate the steep Pennsylvania avenue grades. He asserted that the majority of the property holders favored the improvement provided the street car tracks were removed and that the cost of the resurfacing did not exceed the estimated $3.27 per runing foot.

A resolution, declaring it necessary to improve the street by resurfacing,

Like Dr. Faiman, Marchand replied: "You're a liar."

Sensational Testimony.

Dr. Faiman, who began his testimony Thursday as a reluctant witness, is now a willing witness and his testimony has provided sensation after sensation. The climax came when he described in detail the private lessons in disease culture which he himself gave to Shepherd.

"We worked with a microscope," Dr. Faiman said, "and one of the first things I had to teach Mr. Shepherd

ARMS PARLEY UP TO FRANCE

Coolidge Ready to Act if Paris Supports Plan.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—If France can be brought into line, it appeared notu nlikely today that another international arms conference will be held in Washington next autumn or winter.

Great Britain is willing, Japan is willing—and President Coolidge, is ready to issue the invitations at the moment there appears a reasonable chance for a successful meeting. It rests with France.

Collapse of the Geneva protocol, and with it all of the league of nations plans for disarmament, has, in President Coolidge's opinion, opened the way for the United States to take the lead in organizing another conference.

Whether French objections can be overcome remains to be seen, but administration officials declared today they were more hopeful than they have ever been that the winter will see the world powers again gathered around the conference table to discuss mutual scrapping of arms.

was passed on three readings later in the meeting. Councilman Larcombe, although voting for the resolution on first reading, cast his vote in opposition on the motion to suspend the rules and also on second and third readings. The other solons supported the resolution.

Upon a motion submitted by Councilman Kerr and seconded by Solon Farrail, the mayor was instructed to order the company to remove its Mulberry street tracks without further delay in order that there might be no tie-up in the improvement. This action was taken without a dissenting vote.

Wants Assessments Collected.

Petitions, one from St. George street residents, seeking permission to cross St. George street with a sanitary sewer, the other requesting the city engineer to establish the grade of Long alley, between First and Virginia avenues, were received by council and favorable action taken on both.

Councilman Hayes submitted a list of street and sewer improvement assessments, totalling $100,000, levied against East Liverpool property, most of which are delinquent.

"Let's take steps to collect this money," suggested Hayes. "This is one reason why the city is in debt. This property is good for the assessment and I believe there is some way to collect it if we only try."

President Capehart named Solons Hayes, Kerr and Larcombe as members of a committee to confer with the county prosecutor, county auditor and other county officials regarding the collection of the delinquent assessments.

Councilman Chambers called council's attention to a complaint made by the Riverside Knob company, regarding the railroad crossing at the foot of Market street. The street committee, with Engineer George, was instructed to investigate in an effort to eliminate the trouble, alleged to have been caused by the construction of a railroad siding to the new Crawford & Fleming warehouse.

May Extend Water Lines.

The service director was instructed to ash a section of Laurel avenue, upon a motion offered by Councilman Farrall. Many garages, it is claimed, face this thoroughfare and the owners are unable to get their cars out because of mud which is said to be a foot deep. The service director was also ordered to install a street light on this street.

The request for an extension of the water lines in Gardendale was referred to the street committee for investigation. Council Clerk Shone was granted a leave of absence for the next three meetings.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey appeared before council to discuss the proposed connecting link between Second street and Broadway, via the Conant property, which he recently purchased. He said the railroad company has not accepted the city's terms regarding the abandonment of the Second street crossing.

The street committee, city engineer and Mr. Vodrey were requested to draft the ordinance stipulating the only terms under which the city would agree to abandon this crossing and build the connecting link between the two streets.

The street committee recommended the installation of a street light on Montgomery avenue, Northside, that Denver street, Park avenue and Elizabeth street be ashed and that the matter of a bumper at the incoming freight station at the foot of Walnut street be investigated.

was how to use it. In demonstrating the use of the microscope we placed typhoid germs in the slide because they were the kind of bacilli that Mr. Shepherd was inquiring about. I taught him how to recognize them.

"Mr. Shepherd said he was a lawyer and he wanted to prepare himself in case he should have to defend a client accused of administering germs.

"He wanted to know how typhoid germs could be kept and administered to a person without danger of detection. He inquired about different types of typhoid germs and I told him of three different types. The treatment for the disease caused by one type of germ would not be the correct treatment for the disease caused by another type."

Typhoid Germs Missing.

Dr. Faiman said that after Shepherd's last lessons three tubes of typhoid germs were missing.

Then followed Dr. Faiman's version of the letter story—the letter in which Shepherd was said to have shown his first interest in germs and asking about courses in bacteriology. Shepherd says this letter next existed.

"Just after the McClintock funeral," Dr. Faiman said, "Mr. Shepherd came to the University and we had a conversation in my office.

"I reminded him that after taking a few lessons he never had actually matriculated in the University. He said he would make that all right, meaning, I supposed, that he would pay for the instruction he had received.

"Then he turned the conversation casually to the way the University was operated and how its records were kept. He asked if we kept a file of correspondence. I told him we did and showed it to him."

Received $50 for Letter, He Claims.

"'There's a letter here somewhere that I'm interested in getting,' Mr. Shepherd then said, and he proceeded to run through his files until he came to the 'S' division where he found his original letter written to the university. He folded it up and put it in his pocket, saying he would make it all right with me."

Questioning by a state's attorney's aid later brought the statement from Dr. Faiman that "he received just $50 for that letter."

It was this alleged letter which had been mentioned at the coroner's inquest as "being worth $50,000."

Chief Justice Harry Olson, who has done more than any other one person to keep the investigation going, announced today that search was being made for Joseph Scheldeck, chauffeur for Shepherd until Louis Kiles succeeded him.

GREEK PROBLEM GENEVA ISSUE

New Questionnaire on Minorities Will be Sent to Athens.

GENEVA, March 14.—After a long speech by former Premier Venizelos, this morning, the league of nations council decided to send a new questionnaire to the Greek government on the treatment of Greek and Bulgarian minorities.

Greek representatives signed an agreement on this subject at the last council meeting which the Greek parliamant rejected, reopening the subject.

Delegate Ishii, of Japan, reported on the expulsion of the Greek cumenical patriarch from Constantinople, declaring that Turkey refused the council's jurisdiction, claiming it was an internal question.

Venizelos argued for the council's competency to rule in the difference, which nearly precipitated serious trouble between Greece and Turkey a month ago.

The council plans to conclude present business and adjourn tonight. Otherwise a Sunday meeting will be necessary.

Couzens-Mellon Row Breaks Out on Floor of Senate

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—The acrimonious row between Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan and the treasury department broke out on the floor of the senate today. Vigorously defending Secretary Mellon Senator Ernst, Republican of Kentucky, a member of the special committee investigating the Bureau of Internal Revenue, assailed Couzens' charges that he was being "punished" by the treasury because of his prosecution of the inquiry.

Ernst charged that Couzens was "posing as a martyr."

"The action by the department in regard to Senator Couzens has been followed in thousands of other cases, and it has worked no hardships on the tax payer," declared Ernst, who said that if Couzens had signed waiver setting aside the statute of limitations "there would not have been this trouble, and no assessment would have been levied."

The senate gave evidence of its support of Couzens by the number of offers of assistance that poured in on him from all sides.

One came from Senator Dupont, Republican of Delaware, multi-millionaire powder king, who volunteered to go the entire bond. Another was from Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, who offered to join a pool of senators to raise the bond.

BOGGS GUILTY; ESCAPES DEATH

Life Sentence Given Convicted Slayer of Surveyor.

HILLSBORO, O., March 14.—"Dapper Dan" Boggs, just 21 years old, goes to the penitentiary for life for the murder of Harry T. Magill, 30, deputy surveyor of Highland county, December 30, 1924.

"Dapper Dan," who has spent part of his time in writing poetry and singing love songs since he and his brother, John Boggs, 24, were jailed for the alleged murder, is far from being worried. "I'll get out of it some way," he says.

"Lady Luck," whom the Boggs brothers are betting on to free them in the long run, Saturday smiled slightly at Dan for the jurors, declaring him guilty of first degree murder, recommended mercy. That saves Dan from the electric chair.

Brother Awaits Trial

John's Trial on the same charge begins Monday morning. John testified that neither Dan nor he killed Magill. They were arrested on suspicion of robbing the Hillsboro hardware store and were being taken to jail, they tried to escape and Ed Lemon, a merchant policeman, who was being assisted by Magill in arresting the prisoners, fired at them and accidentally shot his own companion.

The wives and babies of the Boggs brothers were in court during the trial and so were the widow and child of Magill. It is thought that the crooing and crying of Dan Boggs' infant helped sway the jury, three of whose members were women.

John and Dan Boggs are scions of a wealthy family at Jackson, O. The police charge them with committing a number of robberies of stores while going through Ohio in their auto, presumably to sell stove polish.

Wheat Hits New Lows in Chicago; Market is Erratic

CHICAGO, Mar. 14—After an irregular opening wheat in the first few minutes of trading today broke to new lows. The May future dropped to $1.62 before it strengthened up again. At the mid-session wheat was 2¼ to 2⅜ and corn was ¾ to ½ under yesterday's close. All the markets were furiously erratic in early trading, jumping up and down in a way that made trading most hazardous. Execution of orders at any where near the prices that showed on the ticker at the time they were put in was mere luck.

Helen Stokes Happy Although Wealthy Husband is Freed

CHICAGO, March 14—Despite the fast acquittal by a jury of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire New York hotel man on a charge of conspiracy to defame his wife, Helen Ellwood Stokes, she was jubilant today as her husband will not have to go to jail.

Her feelings in the matter are ascribed to the fact that during the highly charged atmosphere of the trial, Stokes' attorneys declared they did not really believe that Mrs. Stokes was the "red headed Helen" named in the suit.

Stokes was acquitted in 61 minutes by a jury of having conspired to defame his wife and to drag her name through the fleshpots of Chicago's old underworld.

Bituminous Coal Industry Reported In Semi-collapse

WASHINGTON, March 14.—A condition of semi-collapse exists in the bituminous coal industry, according to the department of commerce, which made public today surveys covering all the fields of the country.

The industry is over-manned and over-produced, according to the government surveyors, and the mild weather in February further contributed to the decline that is generally noticeable throughout the entire industry.

Remedial measures will be discussed next week at Cleveland where operators of the central competitive field are to meet.

To the Public:

I wish to state through the medium of this paper that I did not give any evidence whatsoever against —— Albert (Mose) Watkin at Wellsville on March 6th and 9th.

I was supposed to be a states witness according to reports.

If I was a state witness my evidence cleared Mr. Watkin of the charges he was being tried on. I simply stated the truth in the case which was enough for the dismissing of the case against Mr. Watkin.

mit his name to the senate probably Monday, or as soon as the Warren nomination is formally rejected for the second time.

Administration leaders failed in efforts to get the president to withdraw Warren's name in face of certain defeat. The president was said to have declared that such action would be an admission that he erred in sending Warren's name back for the second time. This, he refused to do, maintaining that Warren was entirely fit for the appointment and that partisan influences were the cause of his rejection.

As a result of the president's decision, a gentleman's agreement was reached in the senate to postpone further consideration of the Warren nomination until Monday. It was said a vote will be quickly reached then, the appointment rejected, a new nomination sent to the senate and confirmed without much delay. An adjournment will follow.

The street committee, with Engineer George, was instructed to investigate in an effort to eliminate the trouble, alleged to have been caused by the construction of a railroad siding to the new Crawford & Fleming warehouse.

May Extend Water Lines.

The service director was instructed to ash a section of Laurel avenue, upon a motion offered by Councilman Farrall. Many garages, it is claimed, face this thoroughfare and the owners are unable to get their cars out because of mud which is said to be a foot deep. The service director was also ordered to install a street light on this street.

The request for an extension of the water lines in Gardendale was referred to the street committee for investigation. Council Clerk Shone was granted a leave of absence for the next three meetings.

Attorney W. H. Vodrey appeared before council to discuss the proposed connecting link between Second street and Broadway, via the Conant property, which he recently purchased. He said the railroad company has not accepted the city's terms regarding the abandonment of the Second street crossing.

The street committee, city engineer and Mr. Vodrey were requested to draft the ordinance stipulating the only terms under which the city would agree to abandon this crossing and build the connecting link between the two streets.

The street committee recommended the installation of a street light on Montgomery avenue, Northside, that Denver street, Park avenue and Elizabeth street be ashed and that the matter of a bumper at the incoming freight station at the foot of Walnut street be investigated.

was how to use it. In demonstrating the use of the microscope we placed typhoid germs in the slide because they were the kind of bacilli that Mr. Shepherd was inquiring about. I taught him how to recognize them.

"Mr. Shepherd said he was a lawyer and he wanted to prepare himself in case he should have to defend a client accused of administering germs.

"He wanted to know how typhoid germs could be kept and administered to a person without danger of detection. He inquired about different types of typhoid germs and I told him of three different types. The treatment for the disease caused by one type of germ would not be the correct treatment for the disease caused by another type."

Typhoid Germs Missing.

Dr. Falman said that after Shepherd's last lessons three tubes of typhoid germs were missing.

Then followed Dr. Falman's version of the letter story—the letter in which Shepherd was said to have shown his first interest in germs and asking about courses in bacteriology. Shepherd says this letter next existed.

"Just after the McClintock funeral," Dr. Falman said, "Mr. Shepherd came to the University and we had a conversation in my office.

"I reminded him that after taking a few lessons he never had actually matriculated in the University. He said he would make that all right, meaning, I supposed, that he would pay for the instruction he had received.

"Then he turned the conversation casually to the way the University was operated and how its records were kept. He asked if we kept a file of correspondence. I told him we did and showed it to him."

Received $50 for Letter, He Claims.

"There's a letter here somewhere that I'm interested in getting,' Mr. Shepherd then said, and he proceeded to run through his files until he came to the 'S' division where he found his original letter written to the university. He folded it up and put it in his pocket, saying he would make it all right with me."

Questioning by a state's attorney's aid later brought the statement from Dr. Falman that "he received just $50 for that letter."

It was this alleged letter which had been mentioned at the coroner's inquest as "being worth $50,000."

Chief Justice Harry Olson, who has done more than any other one person to keep the investigation going, announced today that search was being made for Joseph Scheldeck, chauffeur for Shepherd until Louis Kiles succeeded him.

GREEK PROBLEM GENEVA ISSUE

New Questionnaire on Minorities Will be Sent to Athens.

GENEVA, March 14.—After a long speech by former Premier Venizelos, this morning, the league of nations council decided to send a new questionnaire to the Greek government on the treatment of Greek and Bulgarian minorities.

Greek representatives signed an agreement on this subject at the last council meeting which the Greek parliamant rejected, reopening the subject.

Delegate Ishii, of Japan, reported on the expulsion of the Greek cumenical patriarch from Constantinople, declaring that Turkey refused the council's jurisdiction, claiming it was an internal question.

Venizelos argued for the council's competency to rule in the difference, which nearly precipitated serious trouble between Greece and Turkey a month ago.

The council plans to conclude present business and adjourn tonight. Otherwise a Sunday meeting will be necessary.

Couzens-Mellon Row Breaks Out on Floor of Senate

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14—The acrimonious row between Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan and the treasury department broke out on the floor of the senate today. Vigorously defending Secretary Mellon Senator Ernst, Republican of Kentucky, a member of the special committee investigating the Bureau of Internal Revenue, assailed Couzens' charges that he was being "punished" by the treasury because of his prosecution of the inquiry.

Ernst charged that Couzens was "posing as a martyr."

"The action by the department in regard to Senator Couzens has been followed in thousands of other cases, and it has worked no hardships on the tax payer," declared Ernst, who said that if Couzens had signed waiver setting aside the statute of limitations "there would not have been this trouble, and no assessment would have been levied."

The senate gave evidence of its support of Couzens by the number of offers of assistance that poured in on him from all sides.

One came from Senator Dupont, Republican of Delaware, multi-millionaire powder king, who volunteered to go the entire bond. Another was from Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, who offered to join a pool of senators to raise the bond.

BOGGS GUILTY; ESCAPES DEATH

Life Sentence Given Convicted Slayer of Surveyor.

HILLSBORO, O., March 14.—"Dapper Dan" Boggs, just 21 years old, goes to the penitentiary for life for the murder of Harry T. Magill, 30, deputy surveyor of Highland county, December 30, 1924.

"Dapper Dan," who has spent part of his time in writing poetry and singing love songs since he and his brother, John Boggs, 24, were jailed for the alleged murder, is far from being worried. "I'll get out of it some way," he says.

"Lady Luck," whom the Boggs brothers are betting on to free them in the long run, Saturday smiled slightly at Dan for the jurors, declaring him guilty of first degree murder, recommended mercy. That saves Dan from the electric chair.

Brother Awaits Trial

John's Trial on the same charge begins Monday morning. John testified that neither Dan nor he killed Magill. They were arrested on suspicion of robbing the Hillsboro hardware store and were being taken to jail, they tried to escape and Ed Lemon, a merchant policeman, who was being assisted by Magill in arresting the prisoners, fired at them and accidentally shot his own companion.

The wives and babies of the Boggs brothers were in court during the trial and so were the widow and child of Magill. It is thought that the cooing and crying of Dan Boggs' infant helped sway the jury, three of whose members were women.

John and Dan Boggs are scions of a wealthy family at Jackson, O. The police charge them with committing a number of robberies of stores while going through Ohio in their auto, presumably to sell stove polish.

Wheat Hits New Lows in Chicago; Market is Erratic

CHICAGO, Mar. 14—After an irregular opening wheat in the first few minutes of trading today broke to new lows. The May future dropped to $1.62 before it strengthened up again. At the mid-session wheat was 2¼ to 2⅜ and corn was ¾ to ½ under yesterday's close. All the markets were furiously erratic in early trading, jumping up and down in a way that made trading most hazardous. Execution of orders at any where near the prices that showed on the ticker at the time they were put in was mere luck.

Helen Stokes Happy Although Wealthy Husband is Freed

CHICAGO, March 14—Despite the fast acquittal by a jury of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire New York hotel man on a charge of conspiracy to defame his wife, Helen Ellwood Stokes, she was jubilant today as her husband will not have to go to jail.

Her feelings in the matter are ascribed to the fact that during the highly charged atmosphere of the trial, Stokes' attorneys declared they did not really believe that Mrs. Stokes was the "red headed Helen" named in the suit.

Stokes was acquitted in 61 minutes by a jury of having conspired to defame his wife and to drag her name through the fleshpots of Chicago's old underworld.

Bituminous Coal Industry Reported In Semi-collapse

WASHINGTON, March 14.—A condition of semi-collapse exists in the bituminous coal industry, according to the department of commerce, which made public today surveys covering all the fields of the country.

The industry is over-manned and over-produced, according to the government surveyors, and the mild weather in February further contributed to the decline that is generally noticeable throughout the entire industry.

Remedial measures will be discussed next week at Cleveland where operators of the central competitive field are to meet.

To the Public:

I wish to state through the medium of this paper that I did not give any evidence whatsoever against —— Albert (Mose) Watkin at Wellsville on March 6th and 9th.

I was supposed to be a states witness according to reports.

If I was a state witness my evidence cleared Mr. Watkin of the charges he was being tried on. I simply stated the truth in the case which was enough for the dismissing of the case against Mr. Watkin.

mit his name to the senate probably Monday, or as soon as the Warren nomination is formally rejected for the second time.

Administration leaders failed in efforts to get the president to withdraw Warren's name in face of certain defeat. The president was said to have declared that such action would be an admission that he erred in sending Warren's name back for the second time. This, he refused to do, maintaining that Warren was entirely fit for the appointment and that partisan influences were the cause of his rejection.

As a result of the president's decision, a gentleman's agreement was reached in the senate to postpone further consideration of the Warren nomination until Monday. It was said a vote will be quickly reached then, the appointment rejected, a new nomination sent to the senate and confirmed without much delay. An adjournment will follow.

Cancer May Yield

Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., addressing physicians in Philadelphia, said the other day that medical science is "slowly but surely approaching the conquest of cancer." Wasserman, the German scientist, who has made exhaustive studies of blood, is beginning to believe that by blood analysis he can discover the presence of cancer before it has reached the point of malignant growth.

When the surgeon can catch cancer in an early stage, he can almost always remove it safely, and often without danger of recurrence. But the internal cancers too often proceed without giving any warning to the patient until they have involved organs which make it impossible to operate without danger.

The cause of cancer so far eludes discovery. When that is found, it will be conquered indeed. Meanwhile, every step towards early diagnosis is a welcome aid.

United States Silks in the Louvre

American visitors at the Louvre museum in Paris may now have the pleasure of looking at some beautiful silks made in South Manchester, Conn. An exhibit of 2,500 yards of printed silks, tinsel and cut velvets in 100 color schemes and 30 designs has been received recently by the French director of fine arts, in the presence of Ambassador Herrick and the French minister of justice.

American museums contain textile exhibitions from many parts of the world and of many different centuries. But few Americans realized that domestic silks were of sufficient artistic, scientific or historical importance to be placed on exhibition in a foreign museum.

Imported silks, embroideries and laces are highly valued by many American consumers. It is worth noting that our manufacturers also produce materials of beauty and excellence.

Children Who Travel Alone

Now and then the public is interested by a news story of some child who is forced by circumstances to take a long journey alone. It always seems a surprising and rather unusual thing. It is really fairly common.

Officers of the traffic department of the Canadian National railways say their lines alone, during the past year, carried more than 100 children under 12 years of age long distances. Employes and officials of many lines are thoroughly prepared to transport unaccompanied youngsters safely to their destination. Four of the children so carried last year on the C. N. R. went to California from the east, several went to Vancouver, and a large number went to points in the Canadian prairie provinces.

Just recently two youngsters have arrived from London, England, who are bound for Timmins, Ont. They are four and two years old, respectively.

No parents want to send their minor children off on long journeys alone. Yet there are unfortunately occasions when it is necessary that little folks be sent to a distant place, although there are no relatives or friends able to take them. It is pleasant to know that in such cases their journey is safely and happily made because there are honest and kindly persons all along the way who can take charge of them.

The Intelligent Age

Geofrey H. Thompson, an English educator, concludes after long research that human intelligence is keenest at the age of 16. That is to say, at 16 a boy or girl is more capable of grasping and understanding things than he or she ever was before, or ever will be again.

Additional knowledge will come later. Maturity should bring more judgment, more wisdom. But never again will the mind be so plastic to new impressions, so quick and receptive to new ideas and information.

The intelligent man, Prof. Thompson says, is nearly always found to have been an intelligent youth. If he did not show it in school, it was probably the fault of teachers.

There are two obvious conclusions to be drawn from this. One is the importance of teachers and parents doing their best to utilize the outburst of intelligence that comes normally to a youngster in his 'teens. The other is the folly and waste of boys and girls leaving school, as so many do, just at the time when their minds are most receptive to knowledge and influences which tend to shape all the rest of their lives.

Air Collisions

Two French airplanes, performing military maneuvers, collided the other day in the clouds, half a mile up, and dropped to earth like shot birds.

That might happen anywhere, once in a million times, with but a few planes in the air at once. A less excusable incident of the same kind was the head-on collision of two passenger planes last year, in the London-Paris air line, with disastrous consequences.

If these things occur now, with airplanes still an infrequent sight to the big majority of human kind, what will it be like when the sky is as full of planes as the land is now of motor cars? Traffic difficulties, though of a different sort, will be far more complicated and perplexing, and accidents more serious.

If the airplane, unlike the automobile, has a third dimension in which to dodge collision, by the same token it has three dimensions in which to collide. This may prove to be the most baffling problem of human flight.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 14.—Montmartre was hedged in by one of those drizzling rains. It was after midnight and I sat at a marble topped table in a little cafe in Place Pigalle. The white coated barman was napping with a dozing cat on his shoulders.

There was a sprinkling of those flabby and dropsical women known as Georgette, Lulu, Gaby and Charlotte. At one table a little aloof was a long haired student alternately writing and dreamily gazing at the opalescent squares in the street shed by lights inside.

It was interesting to watch the casual patrons who dropped in at this late hour. A police inspector who sipped coffee out of a glass. A clerical, melancholy looking fellow who distributed pamphlets on virtue. And then drank a gin fizz.

A man and a girl. It was evident a passing fancy had become a long drawn out and serious liason. And they were bored. I gathered she was leaving him that night. He was a little sorry but his happy relief outweighed it. Love jells quickly in Montmartre.

A very old woman with ruffled white hair who chewed at a short stemmed clay pipe. She had the face of a weasel and I imagine the cunning. These old hags manage somehow to keep on living in a haze of rum soaked bliss.

The place reeked with the mingling smells of coffee, eau de cologne and tobacco smoke. A sleepy eyed boy came out from under the bar where he was napping and sprinkled sawdust on the floor. Then with a hatpin he picked up the cigarette ends lying about and pocketed them to sell later.

Two of the women began to quarrel. French women cat-spit awhile and then pull hair. They did this. And 10 minutes later were smiling and chatting amiably. It was nearing dawn when I left. Nobody was thinking of going home. Montmartre likes company. It does not enjoy being alone with its thoughts.

Having remained up so late I decided to make a night of it and visited chez Marianne in the Boulevard de Clichy for breakfast. It is one of those depraved places that advertises "les hommes spirituels et gair" and "les vraies jolies femmes," but it is supposed to serve the best chicken in Paris. Chicken was a little too heavy so I selected an omelet. It was excellent. All through Montmartre gay parties were on their way for onion soup without which Paris does not believe any hectic night is complete. The prices on the left bank are just about half what they are on the right bank of the Seine and the food and service are just as good. Because the right bank is considered smart it is able to double its price.

I have written so often of the beauty of a Paris morning that it may become tiresome, yet I can think of only one thing so awe inspiring—and that is the New York skyline. I had the driver take me to Notre Dame and watch that enduring bulk as the sun came up, for the skies had dried and the day promised to be fair. Notre Dame clutches the past and present. Its portals have been stained by the blood of revolutions and profane hands have pillaged it but its majestic silhouette remains. Its Gothic mystery and imagery give you a sweeping emotion of life and eternity. I know of an unemotional business man who saw Notre Dame one night in the falling dusk and wept like a child. People in the shabby quarters and narrow old streets in the neighborhood were arising from sleep. You could hear singing and laughter. It is surprising to think Paris has so recently passed through a calamity.

Enchanting as Paris is I could never live here permanently. For after all America spoils you for Europe. Many of us should come over here more often for a new appreciation of our own greatness.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

SEEKING GOOD HEALTH

WASHINGTON, March 14. — And now we have the health studio. A group of earnest men and women in Washington have banded together and in various ways are striving to attain a better state of health. The director is a phychologist and metaphysician and her husband is a masseur. There is also a teacher of dancing, an instructor in natural gymnacics, and, in addition, visiting authorities who give free lectures on good health.

These lectures are given Sunday afternoons and are on such subjects as "Correct Eating," "How to Build a Healthy Body," and "How to Get Well and Stay Well." They are followed by buffet suppers introducing nutritious foods in proper combinations. These well-balanced meals, in fact, are a regular feature of the studio. Breakfast and dinner are served. These are prepared scientifically so as to meet the requirements of each patient or client. If the person is too stout, he is served with meals containing no fattening foods. If he is too thin he is given foods having the greatest amount of fattening contents.

The instructor of dancing uses the slogan, "Dance for Health." He says he believes that dancing is one of the greatest aids to good health. It assists in equalizing not only the flesh of the body, but also the energy. It teaches the dancer rhythmic breathing. He unconsciously breathes to the rhythm of the music.

This rhythmic, or vitalic, breathing differs from the deep breathing which has long been advocated by physical instructors, as well as the medical profession. It is really sniff breathing. In walking at an ordinary gait the person is told to breathe in the following fashion: In, in, out. Rest three steps. In, in, out. When walking rapidly or running, the breathing should be, in, out. In, out. This sort of breathing is said to develop the upper lung.

People are urged to dance as a means toward attaining grace and poise. It also aids in overcoming self-consciousness, which is certainly a curse and a handicap to many persons. The "home work" assigned by this instructor consists of exercises which are designed to fit the individual pupil.

ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS

This, of course, is just one small group of the large army of health crusaders. More and more people are realizing the vital importance of good health. It is the keystone of a successful career. No one who is not physically up to par can possibly stand the gaff of this whirlwind modern life. He may go along for some time with no apparent ill effects, but sooner or later comes a snap. In order to avert this he must follow certain health laws. And to teach him these has become the life work of many in all parts of the country.

One of the best known of these, perhaps, is William Muldoon, who has his hygienic institute near White Plains, N. Y. To him have gone rich and poor, famous and humble. One of his famous clients was the late Theodore Roosevelt. The keynote of Mr. Muldoon's course seems to be discipline. He is insistent upon this. If a man who has put himself under his care does not conform to the rules and regulations of the institution, and will not obey orders, he is asked to leave. Mr. Muldoon explains that this is not done for his benefit, but because each rule and each order is to help the client, and if he will not comply with them there is no use of his remaining.

The usual routine of the institute is as follows: Get up at 6 and exercise in the gymnasium for half an hour. Then take a shower, after which breakfast is served. Dinner is served in the middle of the day and supper in the evening. Bedtime is 9 o'clock. A great deal of riding and walking is also done. The diet of each man is regulated according to his needs. If he is found exchanging with someone else who perhaps has been given food more to his taste, he is liable to a public rebuke from Mr. Muldoon.

William Muldoon is 70 now and might pass for 50 or 60. He is active, alert and fairly exudes good health. Most of this he attributes to self-discipline. He says he feels he may fairly claim that his mind has absolute control over his body. He never indulges himself in the smallest thing. If he knows that an extra cup of coffee is not good for him he will not drink it. He urges everyone to be a strict self-disciplinarian, saying that most of us know quite well what we should do, but we are too self-indulgent to do it.

A NEW JERSEY FARM

Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion and captain in the Sanitary corps, U. S. army, during the World war, has a physical training farm at Long Hill Summit, N. J. Here also men are instructed in the art of right living. Proper exercise, wholesome diet and relaxation are prescribed and personally supervised by Mr. Welsh.

In addition to places of this sort there are the various types of clinics where free information on health subjects, and often free treatment, is given to those who are not able to pay. Nearly every city now has clinics operating under the supervision of the public health department, local hospital or some social welfare organization, where mothers may take their babies to be weighed and receive advice as to their general physical welfare. Usually for the poor there is no charge for this service, while those who can pay a nominal fee. This money is used to help defray the actual expense of conducting the clinic.

About two years ago in New York city the health corner was organized by the New York Tuberculosis association and a public health nurse placed in charge. In the window were placed exhibits which were designed to attract attention of the passerby. At first few did more than look in the window. Some wandered inside through curiosity and some asked advice for "a friend." Under the sympathetic understanding of the nurse in charge, however, these latter soon admitted that they were the ones for whom the advice was wanted.

Health programs were arranged in many of the public schools, which included series of talks, posters, health exhibits and Chew-Chew, the health clown. Teachers conducted their classes on excursions to the health corner. In schools there were no organized nutrition classes, but children who were undernourished were referred to the health corner. There they received instruction individually or in nutrition classes. Settlement and neighborhood houses were invited to send their clubs for similar instructions.

This health corner has now been discontinued and experiments are to be made in establishing centers in various sections of the city for the purpose of testing out methods of health education. The first neighborhood selected for this work is the East Harlem district. health shop is to be opened there by the new York Tuberculosis association in co-operation with 22 agencies which constitute the East Harlem health center.

If the ambitions of all of these advocates of good health are realized 25 years from now the medical profession may not be a lucrative one.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, March 14.—Joan of Arc is again the center of attraction on the Paris stage.

Madame Simone, one of France's well-known actresses, is now appearing in Jeanne d'Arc in her husband's new play, "La Vierge au Grand Coeur." It is the work of a true poet, with beautiful images and high sentiments, but not the kind of a play that will be successful with the public of today. It is a modern tune played on an old instrument, giving the development of the little peasant maid of Orleans from shepherdess to heroine. But something is lacking and the play drags.

Madame Simone believes that her husband's version of Joan is much more realistic than the one of "G. B. S."

"He has presented her as she really was," she says, "a woman of action as well as a mystic. Mr. Show's theme is apropos of the girl, while my husband's is Jeanne herself."

The first secene shows the little shepherdess attached to home, but stirred by a call to save France. She would prefer to stay at home with her good parents, but the Archangel Michael appears and urges her to go to Chinon and meet the king. She does and later on to Orleans to fight, then to Rheims for the coronation of the king, and finally to Rouen to die.

"Natchalo" takes us to Russia via the Theatre des Mathurins, to Russia of the Revolution, and it is an interesting journey. "Natchalo," which means the beginning of anything, features a group of high-class, intellectual Bolshevists just before the revolution and later after the fall of Kerensky. There are the usual types: Daicha, beautiful and troubling; devoted revolutionary who loves a French officer; also a revolutionary who remained in Russia to aid in the Red triumph. Finally, however, he begins to revolt and Daicha discovers his treason, thanks to Delaunoy's son, who is also in love with the beautiful Bolshevist vampire. Then came a toss-up between love and duty—what else could Russia of the Revolution produce?

Is it possible to vindicate the murderer of 800 little children—and this after four or five hundred years?

Gilles de Rais, arch-fiend and Blue beard who fought under the standard of Joan of Arc, may have been the victim of grave legal error after all, when he was executed, and steps are now being taken to reopen the trial.

A French marshal at the age of 25, the famous Gilles took advantage of his glory and fame, retired to his magnificent chateaux of Machecoul, Chantoce and Tiffanges, surrounded himself with untold luxury and dissipated his fortune so fast that before many moons he was forced to appeal to the famous Florentine alchemist, Prelati, to make him some gold.

In the meantime 800 choir children, serving the 40 chaplains that were with Gilles, disappeared mysteriously and the marshal was accused of having murdered them.

Now, during recent researches, Dr. Vinchon has found a real gold vein, rich enough, he says, to make it possible for profitable exploitation. Under the very chateau of Gilles de Rais is a little Klondike which may contain gold valued at more than 2,000,000.

It is now believed that this sudden wealth was due to the discovery of the precious ore beneath his castle and as for the disappearance of the little children—well, many children were lost in those troublesome times of war an adventure. And all of this certainly proves that everything will come to him who just waits long enough.

Cancer May Yield

Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., addressing physicians in Philadelphia, said the other day that medical science is "slowly but surely approaching the conquest of cancer." Wasserman, the German scientist, who has made exhaustive studies of blood, is beginning to believe that by blood analysis he can discover the presence of cancer before it has reached the point of malignant growth.

When the surgeon can catch cancer in an early stage, he can almost always remove it safely, and often without danger of recurrence. But the internal cancers too often proceed without giving any warning to the patient until they have involved organs which make it impossible to operate without danger.

The cause of cancer so far eludes discovery. When that is found, it will be conquered indeed. Meanwhile, every step towards early diagnosis is a welcome aid.

United States Silks in the Louvre

American visitors at the Louvre museum in Paris may now have the pleasure of looking at some beautiful silks made in South Manchester, Conn. An exhibit of 2,500 yards of printed silks, tinsel and cut velvets in 100 color schemes and 30 designs has been received recently by the French director of fine arts, in the presence of Ambassador Herrick and the French minister of justice.

American museums contain textile exhibitions from many parts of the world and of many different centuries. But few Americans realized that domestic silks were of sufficient artistic, scientific or historical importance to be placed on exhibition in a foreign museum.

Imported silks, embroideries and laces are highly valued by many American consumers. It is worth noting that our manufacturers also produce materials of beauty and excellence.

Children Who Travel Alone

Now and then the public is interested by a news story of some child who is forced by circumstances to take a long journey alone. It always seems a surprising and rather unusual thing. It is really fairly common.

Officers of the traffic department of the Canadian National railways say their lines alone, during the past year, carried more than 100 children under 12 years of age long distances. Employes and officials of many lines are thoroughly prepared to transport unaccompanied youngsters safely to their destination. Four of the children so carried last year on the C. N. R. went to California from the east, several went to Vancouver, and a large number went to points in the Canadian prairie provinces.

Just recently two youngsters have arrived from London, England, who are bound for Timmins, Ont. They are four and two years old, respectively.

No parents want to send their minor children off on long journeys alone. Yet there are unfortunately occasions when it is necessary that little folks be sent to a distant place, although there are no relatives or friends able to take them. It is pleasant to know that in such cases their journey is safely and happily made because there are honest and kindly persons all along the way who can take charge of them.

The Intelligent Age

Geofrey H. Thompson, an English educator, concludes after long research that human intelligence is keenest at the age of 16. That is to say, at 16 a boy or girl is more capable of grasping and understanding things than he or she ever was before, or ever will be again.

Additional knowledge will come later. Maturity should bring more judgment, more wisdom. But never again will the mind be so plastic to new impressions, so quick and receptive to new ideas and information.

The intelligent man, Prof. Thompson says, is nearly always found to have been an intelligent youth. If he did not show it in school, it was probably the fault of teachers.

There are two obvious conclusions to be drawn from this. One is the importance of teachers and parents doing their best to utilize the outburst of intelligence that comes normally to a youngster in his 'teens. The other is the folly and waste of boys and girls leaving school, as so many do, just at the time when their minds are most receptive to knowledge and influences which tend to shape all the rest of their lives.

Air Collisions

Two French airplanes, performing military maneuvers, collided the other day in the clouds, half a mile up, and dropped to earth like shot birds.

That might happen anywhere, once in a million times, with but a few planes in the air at once. A less excusable incident of the same kind was the head-on collision of two passenger planes last year, in the London-Paris air line, with disastrous consequences.

If these things occur now, with airplanes still an infrequent sight to the big majority of human kind, what will it be like when the sky is as full of planes as the land is now of motor cars? Traffic difficulties, though of a different sort, will be far more complicated and perplexing, and accidents more serious.

If the airplane, unlike the automobile, has a third dimension in which to dodge collision, by the same token it has three dimensions in which to collide. This may prove to be the most baffling problem of human flight.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 14.—Montmartre was hedged in by one of those drizzling rains. It was after midnight and I sat at a marble topped table in a little cafe in Place Pigalle. The white coated barman was napping with a dozing cat on his shoulders.

There was a sprinkling of those flabby and dropsical women known as Georgette, Lulu, Gaby and Charlotte. At one table a little aloof was a long haired student alternately writing and dreamily gazing at the opalescent squares in the street shed by lights inside.

It was interesting to watch the casual patrons who dropped in at this late hour. A police inspector who sipped coffee out of a glass. A cretical, melancholy looking fellow who distributed pamphlets on virtue. And then drank a gin fizz.

A man and a girl. It was evident a passing fancy had become a long drawn out and serious liason. And they were bored. I gathered she was leaving him that night. He was a little sorry but his happy relief outweighed it. Love jells quickly in Montmartre.

A very old woman with ruffled white hair who chewed at a short stemmed clay pipe. She had the face of a weasel and I imagine the cunning. These old hags manage somehow to keep on living in a haze of rum soaked bliss.

The place reeked with the mingling smells of coffee, eau de cologne and tobacco smoke. A sleepy eyed boy came out from under the bar where he was napping and sprinkled sawdust on the floor. Then with a hatpin he picked up the cigarette ends lying about and pocketed them to sell later.

Two of the women began to quarrel. French women cat-spit awhile and then pull hair. They did this. And 10 minutes later were smiling and chatting amiably. It was nearing dawn when I left. Nobody was thinking of going home. Montmartre likes company. It does not enjoy being alone with its thoughts.

Having remained up so late I decided to make a night of it and visited chez Marianne in the Boulevard de Clichy for breakfast. It is one of those depraved places that advertises "les hommes spirituels et gair" and "les vraies jolies femmes," but it is supposed to serve the best chicken in Paris. Chicken was a little too heavy so I selected an omelet. It was excellent. All through Montmartre gay parties were on their way for onion soup without which Paris does not believe any hectic night is complete. The prices on the left bank are just about half what they are on the right bank of the Seine and the food and service are just as good. Because the right bank is considered smart it is able to double its price.

I have written so often of the beauty of a Paris morning that it may become tiresome, yet I can think of only one thing so awe inspiring—and that is the New York skyline. I had the driver take me to Notre Dame and watch that enduring bulk as the sun came up, for the skies had dried and the day promised to be fair. Notre Dame clutches the past and present. Its portals have been stained by the blood of revolutions and profane hands have pillaged it but its majestic silhouette remains. Its Gothic mystery and imagery give you a sweeping emotion of life and eternity. I know of an unemotional business man who saw Notre Dame one night in the falling dusk and wept like a child. People in the shabby quarters and narrow old streets in the neighborhood were arising from sleep. You could hear singing and laughter. It is surprising to think Paris has so recently passed through a calamity.

Enchanting as Paris is I could never live here permanently. For after all America spoils you for Europe. Many of us should come over here more often for a new appreciation of our own greatness.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

SEEKING GOOD HEALTH

WASHINGTON, March 14. — And now we have the health studio. A group of earnest men and women in Washington have banded together and in various ways are striving to attain a better state of health. The director is a phychologist and metaphysician and her husband is a masseur. There is also a teacher of dancing, an instructor in natural gymnacies, and, in addition, visiting authorities who give free lectures on good health.

Those lectures are given Sunday afternoons and are on such subjects as "Correct Eating," "How to Build a Healthy Body," and "How to Get Well and Stay Well." They are followed by buffet suppers introducing nutritious foods in proper combinations. These well-balanced meals, in fact, are a regular feature of the studio. Breakfast and dinner are served. These are prepared scientifically so as to meet the requirements of each patient or client. If the person is too stout, he is served with meals containing no fattening foods. If he is too thin he is given foods having the greatest amount of fattening contents.

The instructor of dancing uses the slogan, "Dance for Health." He says he believes that dancing is one of the greatest aids to good health. It assists in equalizing not only the flesh of the body, but also the energy. It teaches the dancer rhythmic breathing. He unconsciously breathes to the rhythm of the music.

This rhythmic, or vitalic, breathing differs from the deep breathing which has long been advocated by physical instructors, as well as the medical profession. It is really sniff breathing. In walking at an ordinary gait the person is told to breathe in the following fashion: In, in, out. Rest three steps. In, in, out. When walking rapidly or running, the breathing should be, in, out. In, out. This sort of breathing is said to develop the upper lung.

People are urged to dance as a means toward attaining grace and poise. It also aids in overcoming self-consciousness, which is certainly a curse and a handicap to many persons. The "home work" assigned by this instructor consists of exercises which are designed to fit the individual pupil.

ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS

This, of course, is just one small group of the large army of health crusaders. More and more people are realizing the vital importance of good health. It is the keystone of a successful career. No one who is not physically up to par can possibly stand the gaff of this whirlwind modern life. He may go along for some time with no apparent ill effects, but sooner or later comes a snap. In order to avert this he must follow certain health laws. And to teach him these has become the life work of many in all parts of the country.

One of the best known of these, perhaps, is William Muldoon, who has his hygienic institute near White Plains, N. Y. To him have gone rich and poor, famous and humble. One of his famous clients was the late Theodore Roosevelt. The keynote of Mr. Muldoon's course seems to be discipline. He is insistent upon this. If a man who has put himself under his care does not conform to the rules and regulations of the institution, and will not obey orders, he is asked to leave. Mr. Muldoon explains that this is not done for his benefit, but because each rule and each order is to help the client, and if he will not comply with them there is no use of his remaining.

The usual routine of the institute is as follows: Get up at 6 and exercise in the gymnasium for half an hour. Then take a shower, after which breakfast is served. Dinner is served in the middle of the day and supper in the evening. Bedtime is 9 o'clock. A great deal of r...ing and walking is also done. The diet of each man is regulated according to his needs. If he is found exchanging with someone else who perhaps has been given food more to his taste, he is liable to a public rebuke from Mr. Muldoon.

William Muldoon is 70 now and might pass for 50 or 60. He is active, alert and fairly exudes good health. Most of this he attributes to self-discipline. He says he feels he may fairly claim that his mind has absolute control over his body. He never indulges himself in the smallest thing. If he knows that an extra cup of coffee is not good for him he will not drink it. He urges everyone to be a strict self-disciplinarian, saying that most of us know quite well what we should do, but we are too self-indulgent to do it.

A NEW JERSEY FARM

Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion and captain in the Sanitary corps, U. S. army, during the World war, has a physical training farm at Long Hill Summit, N. J. Here also men are instructed in the art of right living. Proper exercise, wholesome diet and relaxation are prescribed and personally supervised by Mr. Welsh.

In addition to places of this sort there are the various types of clinics where free information on health subjects, and often free treatment, is given to those who are not able to pay. Nearly every city now has clinics operating under the supervision of the public health department, local hospital or some social welfare organization, where mothers may take their babies to be weighed and receive advice as to their general physical welfare. Usually for the poor there is no charge for this service, while those who can pay a nominal fee. This money is used to help defray the actual expense of conducting the clinic.

About two years ago in New York city the health corner was organized by the New York Tuberculosis association and a public health nurse placed in charge. In the window were placed exhibits which were designed to attract attention of the passerby. At first few did more than look in the window. Some wandered inside through curiosity and some asked advice for "a friend." Under the sympathetic understanding of the nurse in charge, however, these latter soon admitted that they were the ones for whom the advice was wanted.

Health programs were arranged in many of the public schools, which included series of talks, posters, health exhibits and Chew-Chew, the health clown. Teachers conducted their classes on excursions to the health corner. In schools there were no organized nutrition classes, but children who were undernourished were referred to the health corner. There they received instruction individually or in nutrition classes. Settlement and neighborhood houses were invited to send their clubs for similar instructions.

This health corner has now been discontinued and experiments are to be made in establishing centers in various sections of the city for the purpose of testing out methods of health education. The first neighborhood selected for this work is the East Harlem district. health shop is to be opened there by the new York Tuberculosis association in co-operation with 22 agencies which constitute the East Harlem health center.

If the ambitions of all of these advocates of good health are realized 25 years from now the medical profession may not be a lucrative one.

PARIS, March 14.—Joan of Arc is again the center of attraction on the Paris stage.

Madame Simone, one of France's well-known actresses, is now appearing in Jeanne d'Arc in her husband's new play, "La Vierge au Grand Coeur." It is the work of a true poet, with beautiful images and high sentiments, but not the kind of a play that will be successful with the public of today. LAD ORDERED EXILED RUNS COAL BUSINESS

"Sammie" Goldman, Said to be "Defective," Prosperous Now.

NATIONAL CASE

Despite Findings, he is Intelligent Enough to Get Trade.

SYRACUSE, Mar.—Sammie Goldman, the little Russian refugee whom immigration officials pronounced a mental defective of such low intellect that he could not remain in the United States has intelligence enough to conduct a business.

He is today the sole proprietor of a wood and coal distributing establishment and conducts a wide and remunerative trade.

Sammie was the principal of the most famous immigration case in the history of the country, but after a bitter fight he was allowed to remain with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Goldman.

He attended Seymour school until shortly after Christmas time and was in the fifth grade when he decided to devote his entire time to the coal business, which he had started about the middle of December.

Rents Garage.

He rented part of a garage from his uncle, Harry Goldsmith, partioned it off and started distributing coal by the bushel. His father loaned him enough capital to buy the first two tons of fuel, but since then he has been entirely independent.

He purchases from five to ten tons per week wholesale and distributes in 100-pound loads. Every day Sammie receives from five to fifteen orders, shovels the coal in bushel bags, loads them on a hand sled and hauls them to their destination himself.

During the recent storms Sammie was the salvation of scores of residents of the west side. His sales increased enormously and necessitated his working from early morning until late at night. When the coal business is slack he shines shoes, and is saving his money to expand his enterprise When Summer comes he is going to deliver ice and wood and also continue shining shoes, thus establishing an all-year-round business.

Keeps Own Books.

Sammie keeps his own book of accounts, collects and pays the bills and transacts all other necessary affairs in connection with his work, which nets him from $10 to $25 per week profits, depending upon the weather.

He is but 17 years old and in a few years hopes to have his business developed into a much larger one, with a horse or truck and office and all other conveniences of a modern coal yard.

His father is a tinsmith by trade, but Sammie prefers a business career. He has one little sister, Yetta, whom he says he is going to help educate.

Stops Boxing.

MIDDLEPORT, March. — Church people here petitioned Mayor Brown to stop boxing matches. He did. Brown is a well-known conductor, running between Charleston, W. Va., and Columbus, O., in private life.

CHESTER TEAMS DIVIDE GAMES

East Liverpool Boys Win Fast Contest; Girls Score Victory.

Chester high school basketball teams closed the season last evening on the Rock Springs park floor by dividing the games with East Liverpool high teams. The local boys were defeated by a score of 32 to 24 while the Chester girls trimmed the Pottery City girls, score 18 to 15. The games drew the largest crowd of the season.

The boys contest was fast throughout and held the interest of the banner crowd especially in the first period of play when the two teams practically battled on even terms Chester girls took the lead at the outset and while their lead was threatened by a rally of their opponents late in the game they came through with a great victory.

English was the first to score in the boys game when he tossed a point from the foul line. Bennett got a field goal for Chester but the lead was evened up when Davis made a foul for the Potters. English scored from the foul line and Bennett scored again from the field. English scored the first field goal for the visitors and Pinney countered with a double decker for Chester. Davis then scored two fouls in rapid succession and the period closed with East Liverpool in the lead by one point, score, 7 to 6.

Bennett at the opening of the second period shot the ball through the net for two points. This gave Chester the lead but Leibschner tied it up with a foul. Pusey made a field goal and Campbell scored from the foul line. English scored from the field and Leibschner came through with a field goal from near the center of the floor. Davis and English scored from the field and the half ended with the visitors in the lead, score 18 to 9.

East Liverpool continued to run up points in the third period and held the lead at the close by a score of 28 to 14. Leibschner scored a field goal at the opening. Myers came back for Chester with a foul. Pinney scored a nice field goal from the center of the floor. Pusey and English both scored from the field and then Bennett came to the front with another two pointer. Davis and Pusey scored from the field as the period closed.

Chester played some fine basketball in the final period, three straight fouls and two field goals by Campbell cut down the visitors lead. Pusey made a field goal and Campbell scored once more from the field. Myers brought applause by shooting two field goals in quick succession and Pusey brought the scoring to a close by caging a pretty field goal.

Pusey and English were the high scorers for East Liverpool while Pinney, Bennett, Myers, Campbell were the leading scorers for Chester. Other members of the two teams played good basketball.

Chester girls went out in the lead at the start of the game and at the end of the first period were leading by a score of 9 to 5. At the half their lead was increased to a score of 15 to 7. Little scoring was done in the third period. East Liverpool girls made a bid for victory in the last period and at one time had crawled up to within two points of Chester.

Miss Paisley was the scoring star for Chester while Miss McElravey carried off honors in this line for the visitors. They were given good support from their teammates.

Budapest Elevator Boy Madly in Love Murders Young Girl

BUDAPEST, March—Mathias Kirally was an elevator boy in the fashionable Ritz Hotel here, and he was madly in love with Elizabeth Adam, a chambermaid, who spurned him. As the girl entered his elevator to go to another floor, Matthias kept her a prisoner, running the car from cellar to roof and back a number of times, while he pressed his suit. Maddened by the girl's refusal to marry him, he plunged a knife into her breast, ran the elevator to the top floor and slashed his own throat. Guests heard their groans, and Matthias was saved from death, but the girl died.

The Legislature sped through another session yesterday before its week-end adjournment until Monday afternoon and as on the previous day the House of Delegates took advantage of the possibility of suspending constitutional rules requiring reading of bills on three days in order to pass a string of local measures on which the vote was unanimous.

The House also instituted a move to bring about a permanent peace with the neighboring state of Ohio in the matter of motor vehicle licenses, which became acute some months ago when both states arrested drivers of trucks bearing foreign licenses. High department officials of both states have failed to effect more than a truce in the dispute, and after receiving information that the Ohio Legislature had appointed a committee to confer with representatives of neighboring states the House passed a resolution to name a like committee to represent West Virginia.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a lisfless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c

Q. Who had the first department store? H. L. A.

A. The modern department store is an evolution of the village general store. Rowland H. Macy is credited with having conceived the department store idea in America and was probably the first in the world. He opened an establishment at 204 Sixth avenue, New York city, in 1858. At first it was devoted exclusively to fancy goods and gradually hats, dress goods, jewelry, toilet ware and other departments were added. For many years this was the only store in New York to carry soaps and perfumes. Wanamaker's in Philadelphia was opened in 1861 as Oak Hall. Marshall Field & Company was organized in Chicago in 1881.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is wrongfully condemned as taking part in the ill-fated rebellion of Monmouth against King James. With Jeremy Pitt he is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave and is bought by Colonel Bishop at the behest of Arabella, his niece. A Spanish galleon commanded by Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez slips into port under false colors and captures Bridgetown. Peter Blood saves the life of Mary Traill and sends Arabella and Mary to safety back of the town. He then leads his fellow rebels-convict on board Don Diego's ship and they capture it while the Spaniards are feasting in the city. When Colonel Bishop, whose limited military defense had failed, realizes that the ship no longer threatens the town he goes aboard, where he is greeted by Peter Blood, now captain of the Spanish galleon, with Jeremy Pitt, Wolverstone and Hagthorpe as his aides. Wolverstone is for hanging Colonel Bishop to the yard arm, but Blood threatens to quit their leadership unless his orders are obeyed.

He paused. There was no answer. But they stood hang-dog and half-mutinous before him, save Hagthorpe, who shrugged and smiled wearily. Mr. Blood resumed:

"Ye'll please to understand that aboard a ship there is one captain. So." He swung again to the startled Colonel. "Though I promise you your life, I must—as you've heard—keep you aboard as a hostage for the good behaviour of Governor Steed and what's left of the fort until we put to sea."

"But . . ."

"There is no more to be said, gentlemen. My name is Blood—Captain Blood, if you please, of this ship the Cinco Llagas, taken as a prize of war from Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez, who is my prisoner aboard."

The officers went, though not without some hustling, regardless of the bellowings of Colonel Bishop, whose monstrous rage was fanned by terror at finding himself at the mercy of these men of whose cause to hate him he was very fully conscious. As they were running close to the headland east of the bay, Peter Blood returned to the Colonel, who, under guard and panic-stricken, had dejectedly resumed his seat on the coamings of the main hatch.

"Can ye swim, Colonel? It's a mercy for you I'm not by nature as bloodthirsty as some of my friends here. And it's the devil's own labor I've had to prevail upon them not to be vindictive."

It was the thought of Arabella Bishop that had urged him to mercy, and had led him to oppose the natural vindictiveness of his fellow-slaves until he had been in danger of precipitating a mutiny. It was entirely to the fact that the Colonel was her uncle, although he did not even begin to suspect such a cause, that he owed such mercy as was now being shown him. Colonel Bishop mastered himself, and rose. Peter Blood gave an order. A plank was run out over the gunwale, and lashed down.

"Just take a little walk, Colonel, darling," said a smooth, mocking voice behind him.

Still clinging, Colonel Bishop looked around in hesitation. He cursed them aloud venomously and incoherently, then loosed his hold and stepped out upon the plank. Three steps he took before he lost his balance and went tumbling into the green depths below.

When he came to the surface again, gasping for air, the Cinco Llagas was already some furlongs to leeward. But the roaring cheer of mocking valediction from the rebels-convict reached him across the water, to drive the iron of impotent rage deeper into his soul.

CHAPTER X

DON DIEGO

Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez awoke, and with languid eyes in aching head, he looked round the cabin, which was flooded with sunlight from the square windows astern. Between the pain in his head and the confusion in his mind, he found coherent thought impossible.

He was beginning to torture his mind with conjecture, when the door opened, and to Don Diego's increasing mystification he beheld his best suit of clothes step into the cabin. The suit paused to close the door, then advanced toward the couch on which Don Diego was extended, and inside the suit came a tall, slender gentleman of about Don Diego's own height and shape. Seeing the wide, startled eyes of the Spaniard upon him, the gentleman lengthened his stride.

"Awake, eh?" said he in Spanish.

"Who the devil are you?" he asked. "And what the devil are you doing in my clothes and aboard my ship?"

"My name is Blood—Captain Peter Blood. This ship, like this handsome suit of clothes, is mine by right of conquest. Just as you, Don Diego, are my prisoner."

"And my son? What of my son?" he cried out. "He was in the boat that brought me aboard."

"Your son is safe; he and the boat's crew together with your gunner and his men are snugly in irons under hatches."

Don Diego sank back on the couch, his glittering dark eyes fixed upon the tawny face above him. He accepted the situation with the fortitude of a fatalist. The light blue eyes played over him like points of steel.

"You are not afraid to die, Don Diego?"

"The question is offensive, sir."

"Would you be willing, sir, to earn life and liberty—for yourself, your son, and the other Spaniards who are on board?"

"To earn it, do you say? Why, if the service you would propose is one that cannot hurt my honor. . . ."

"Could I be guilty of that?" protested the Captain. "I realize that even a pirate has his honor. The only man among us schooled in the art of navigation is fevered, delirious, in fact, as a result of certain ill-treatment he received ashore before we carried him away with us. I can handle a ship in action, and there are one or two men aboard who can assist me; but of the higher mysteries of seamanship and of the art of finding a way over the trackless wastes of ocean, we know nothing. We desire to make for the Dutch settlement of Curacao as straightly as possible. Will you pledge me your honor, if I release you upon parole, that you will navigate us thither? If so, we will release you and your surviving men upon arrival there."

Don Diego strode away in thought to the stern windows. "I accept," he said.

CHAPTER XI

FILIAL PIETY

By virtue of the pledge he had given, Don Diego de Espinosa enjoyed the freedom of the ship that had been his, and the navigation which he had undertaken was left entirely in his hands. He took his meals in the great cabin with Blood and the three officers elected to support him: Hagthorpe, Wolverstone, and Dyke.

That Don Diego was not playing fair it was impossible to suspect. Moreover, there was no conceivable reason why he should not. "If this wind holds," he had told them at supper after he had announced to them their position, "we should reach Curacao inside three days."

For three days the wind held, and yet when the third night descended upon them they had still made no landfall. Captain Blood uneasily mentioned it to Don Diego.

"It will be for to-morrow morning," he was answered with calm conviction.

Captain Blood passed on, content, and went to visit Jerry Pitt, his patient to whose condition Don Diego owed his chance of life. It was this same Jerry Pitt who cast the first thought of suspicion. A trip on deck for a breath of fresh air and his navigator's interest in the night heavens moved him to point out the North Star and to lay the position of the ship to Captain Blood. But Don Diego's easy explanation satisfied his captor.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Q. Who had the first department store? H. L. A.

A. The modern department store is an evolution of the village general store. Rowland H. Macy is credited with having conceived the department store idea in America and was probably the first in the world. He opened an establishment at 204 Sixth avenue, New York city, in 1858. At first it was devoted exclusively to fancy goods and gradually hats, dress goods, jewelry, toilet ware and other departments were added. For many years this was the only store in New York to carry soaps and perfumes. Wanamaker's in Philadelphia was opened in 1861 as Oak Hall. Marshall Field & Company was organized in Chicago in 1881.

Q. Can a fox climb a tree? A. A.

A. Foxes do not as a rule climb trees, but in some instances have been known to do so. Especially young ones often climb fences and poles in breeding pens.

Q. Are natural flower essences used in this country in the making of perfumes? P. J. T.

A. Natural flowers are used in the making of perfume, but the oil is not extracted from the natural flowers in this country. We import these essences from France, Bulgaria and other foreign countries.

Q. What was the amount of the Democratic and Republican national campaign funds last year? C. A.

A. The total expenditures of the campaign by the Republican national committee was $3,063,952.74. The Democratic national committee filed with the clerk of the house at Washington a report showing total campaign contributions of $845,520, from July 1 to November 20, and reported a loan of $120,000 which made available for the campaign a total of $965,520.

Q. How is fruit candied? J. K.

A. Fruit which is to be candied should be washed, peeled or pared if necessary and then cut or sliced. Drop fruit into boiling water for two or three minutes, drain well and cover with a syrup made by boiling together one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, with one cup of water. Boil fruit rapidly in this syrup for 15 minutes. Remove from the fire and allow to stand over night. The next morning boil for 10 or 15 minutes again. Repeat the heating and cooling for four to six days, according to how rapidly the water is drawn out and the syrup absorbed. When the fruit is transparent and bright lift it from the syrup and dry in the sun or in a cool oven.

Q. What was Lillian Russell's maiden name and whom did she marry? H. L.

A. Lillian Russell was born in Clinton, Iowa, in 1861. Her name was "Leonard." She was married four times. Her husbands' names were: Harry Braham, Edward Solomon, John Chatterton and Alexander P. Moore.

Q. What is the combined circulation of women's magazines? F. D.

A. It amounts to 15,000,000.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is wrongfully condemned as taking part in the ill-fated rebellion of Monmouth against King James. With Jeremy Pitt he is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave and is bought by Colonel Bishop at the behest of Arabella, his niece. A Spanish galleon commanded by Don Diego de Espinsa y Valdez slips into port under false colors and captures Bridgetown. Peter Blood saves the life of Mary Traill and sends Arabella and Mary to safety back of the town. He then leads his fellow rebels-convict on board Don Diego's ship and they capture it while the Spaniards are feasting in the city. When Colonel Bishop, whose limited military defense had failed, realizes that the ship no longer threatens the town he goes aboard, where he is greeted by Peter Blood, now captain of the Spanish galleon, with Jeremy Pitt, Wolverstone and Hagthorpe as his aides. Wolverstone is for hanging Colonel Bishop to the yard arm, but Blood threatens to quit their leadership unless his orders are obeyed.

He paused. There was no answer. But they stood hang-dog and half-mutinous before him, save Hagthorpe, who shrugged and smiled wearily. Mr. Blood resumed:

"Ye'll please to understand that aboard a ship there is one captain. So." He swung again to the startled Colonel. "Though I promise you your life, I must—as you've heard—keep you aboard as a hostage for the good behaviour of Governor Steed and what's left of the fort until we put to sea."

He lost his balance and tumbled into the sea.

"But . . ."

"There is no more to be said, gentlemen. My name is Blood—Captain Blood, if you please, of this ship the Cinco Llagas, taken as a prize of war from Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdez, who is my prisoner aboard."

The officers went, though not without some hustling, regardless of the bellowings of Colonel Bishop, whose monstrous rage was fanned by terror at finding himself at the mercy of these men of whose cause to hate him he was very fully conscious. As they were running close to the headland east of the bay, Peter Blood returned to the Colonel, who, under guard and panic-stricken, had dejectedly resumed his seat on the coamings of the main hatch.

"Can ye swim, Colonel? It's a mercy for you I'm not by nature as bloodthirsty as some of my friends here. And it's the devil's own labor I've had to prevail upon them not to be vindictive."

It was the thought of Arabella Bishop that had urged him to mercy, and had led him to oppose the natural vindictiveness of his fellow-slaves until he had been in danger of precipitating a mutiny. It was entirely to the fact that the Colonel was her uncle, although he did not even begin to suspect such a cause, that he owed such mercy as was now being shown him. Colonel Bishop mastered himself, and rose. Peter Blood gave an order. A plank was run out over the gunwale, and lashed down.

"Just take a little walk, Colonel, darling," said a smooth, mocking voice behind him.

Still clinging, Colonel Bishop looked around in hesitation. He cursed them aloud venomously and incoherently, then loosed his hold and stepped out upon the plank. Three steps he took before he lost his balance and went tumbling into the green depths below.

When he came to the surface again, gasping for air, the Cinco Llagas was already some furlongs to leeward. But the roaring cheer of mocking valediction from the rebels-convict reached him across the water, to drive the iron of impotent rage deeper into his soul.

CHAPTER X

DON DIEGO

Don Diego de Espinosa y Valdes awoke, and with languid eyes in aching head, he looked round the cabin, which was flooded with sunlight from the square windows astern. Between the pain in his head and the confusion in his mind, he found coherent thought impossible.

He was beginning to torture his mind with conjecture, when the door opened, and to Don Diego's increasing mystification he beheld his best suit of clothes step into the cabin. The suit paused to close the door, then advanced toward the couch on which Don Diego was extended, and inside the suit came a tall, slender gentleman of about Don Diego's own height and shape. Seeing the wide, startled eyes of the Spaniard upon him, the gentleman lengthened his stride.

"Awake, eh?" said he in Spanish.

"Who the devil are you?" he asked. "And what the devil are you doing in my clothes and aboard my ship?"

"My name is Blood—Captain Peter Blood. This ship, like this handsome suit of clothes, is mine by right of conquest. Just as you, Don Diego, are my prisoner."

"And my son? What of my son?" he cried out. "He was in the boat that brought me aboard."

"Your son is safe; he and the boat's crew together with your gunner and his men are snugly in irons under hatches."

Don Diego sank back on the couch, his glittering dark eyes fixed upon the tawny face above him. He accepted the situation with the fortitude of a fatalist. The light blue eyes played over him like points of steel.

"You are not afraid to die, Don Diego?"

"The question is offensive, sir."

"Would you be willing, sir, to earn life and liberty—for yourself, your son, and the other Spaniards who are on board?"

"To earn it, do you say? Why, if the service you would propose is one that cannot hurt my honor. . . ."

"Could I be guilty of that?" protested the Captain. "I realize that even a pirate has his honor. The only man among us schooled in the art of navigation is fevered, delirious, in fact, as a result of certain ill-treatment he received ashore before we carried him away with us. I can handle a ship in action, and there are one or two men aboard who can assist me; but of the higher mysteries of seamanship and of the art of finding a way over the trackless wastes of ocean, we know nothing. We desire to make for the Dutch settlement of Curacao as straightly as possible. Will you pledge me your honor, if I release you upon parole, that you will navigate us thither? If so, we will release you and your surviving men upon arrival there."

Don Diego strode away in thought to the stern windows. "I accept," he said.

CHAPTER XI

FILIAL PIETY

By virtue of the pledge he had given, Don Diego de Espinosa enjoyed the freedom of the ship that had been his, and the navigation which he had undertaken was left entirely in his hands. He took his meals in the great cabin with Blood and the three officers elected to support him: Hagthorpe, Wolverstone, and Dyke.

That Don Diego was not playing fair it was impossible to suspect. Moreover, there was no conceivable reason why he should not. "If this wind holds," he had told them at supper after he had announced to them their position, "we should reach Curacao inside three days."

For three days the wind held, and yet when the third night descended upon them they had still made no landfall. Captain Blood uneasily mentioned it to Don Diego.

"It will be for to-morrow morning," he was answered with calm conviction.

Captain Blood passed on, content, and went to visit Jerry Pitt, his patient to whose condition Don Diego owed his chance of life. It was this same Jerry Pitt who cast the first thought of suspicion. A trip on deck for a breath of fresh air and his navigator's interest in the night heavens moved him to point out the North Star and to lay the position of the ship to Captain Blood. But Don Diego's easy explanation satisfied his captor.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Lord's Resurrection (Luke 24:36-53), for Sunday, March 15.

1. Why were the disciples expecting a resurrection?
2. Why was Jesus' tomb opened at all if he did not need to have it so in order to rise from it? What is the significance of the fact that the napkin was lying by itself in the tomb?
3. What is the effect of the habit of preaching the resurrection mainly on funeral occasions?
4. What to you is the strongest proof of the resurrection?
5. How does the fact of his resurrection make Christ more truly your Lord and Savior?
6. How did Paul know the truth about the resurrection of Christ?

CLERICUS SAYS: No other miracle in the Bible is pushed out into such publicity and surrounded and supported by so many and so varied lines of proof that converge in one luminous center and glowing and glorious fact. God left no uncertainties hanging around it to throw doubt upon it, no mists to obscure it, but placed it on a rock in the broad light of history.

Lesson Prayer.

We thank thee, dear Savior, that thou livest. We would see thee this morning in all thy beauty. May we hear thee speak to us, "Because I live, ye shall live also." May we trust thee and thy word, and in thee find light and life. In thy dear name we pray. Amen.

Book Review.

"A Dutch Boy Fifty Years After," an adaptation of the Americanization of Edward Bok, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, is one of the notable biographies which received, from Columbia University, the Joseph Pulitzer prize of one thousand dollars as ing patriotic and unselfish service to the nation and at the same time illustrating an eminent example.

"Talks to Young People on Ethics," by Clarence Hall Wilson, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, is a text for groups of young people with questions following each chapter to provoke wholesome discussion. The problems are for the pupils to wrestle with themselves that they will be able to work out some principles of action which will be permanent possessions.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Lord of Life and Master of Death. Our Lord's Resurrection. International Lesson for March 15.—John 20:1-16.

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

The resurrection of Christ is the central column of historic Christianity on which it rests. Throw this down and the whole structure falls into ruins; makes this sure and the historic gospel stands. It is the splendor of the resurrection that scatters the darkness of the crucifix and kindles every page of the gospel with glory. No one saw Jesus rise, but many saw him risen. The gospel narratives pour upon this event a blaze of light such as illuminates no other miracle in the Bible. Inspiration set it in its central place and buttressed it with many infallible proofs so that it cannot be shaken.

The Empty Tomb.

The morning opens with the faithful women, who were last at the cross, first at the tomb. What were they doing there? They bought spices and brought them to anoint the body of Jesus. This loving act has immense significance as showing the state of mind of these women and of all the disciples after the crucifixion. They believed that Jesus was dead and had no hope or thought of his resurrection. They were utterly bewildered, scattered and crushed and supposed that all was over. They were in no condition of mind, then, to invent or imagine a resurrection, and any theory of fraud or vision or hallucination on the part of the disciples is a psychological impossibility. This empty tomb stands as a fact against all attempts to explain it away and it is the first link in the chain of facts that prove the reality of this event.

Peter and John.

The women hastened to spread the news of the empty tomb, and Peter and John were the first disciples to set about an investigation. They at first disbelieved the report as idle talk and probably Peter was the loudest of the scoffers, but presently he "arose and ran to the tomb." This discloses Peter exercising an honest spirit of inquiry. He did not assume that there could be no resurrection and settle the case by a theory spun from his own mind, but he set about finding out the facts. To this test must this question of the resurrection of Christ come. Those grave clothes were mute but convincing evidence to these disciples that Jesus was indeed risen, and their unbelief now gave way to mighty faith that mastered them to the end of their days. This is what came of candid investigation of this report about the empty tomb and the fact stands to this day as a confirmation of our faith.

Mary's Mistaken Tears

The other women departed, but Mary Magdalene stood outside the tomb, weeping and peering into the sepulchre. When asked by the white-robed angels why she wept, she answered, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him." Mary weeping at the empty tomb of her Lord, supposing mistakenly that his body had bene stolen away, presents a deeply pathetic and significant picture. She was weeping over what she thought was an infinite piece of mischief in the world. All her passionate faith and love and hope had been swept into utter confusion by this tragic disaster. Yet God was shaping all these events into a triumphant victory that shall fill eternity with its song. How often are our pudgments as mistaken and blind Mary was simply breaking her heart over the baseless imagination of her own mind. Are not our tears sometimes as mistaken and far astray? Are we not living in God's world and is he not causing all things to work together for our good? Is not the grave itself but the green mountain top of a far new world? Did our blinded eyes and unbelieving hearts but know the truth aoout our dead, our tears might be seen to be as mistaken and baseless as the tears of Mary at the empty tomb of her risen Lord. Even as she wept, Jesus was revealed to her and her tears of grief were turned to tears of jubilant joy.

Many Infallible Proofs

The resurrection of Christ is attested by many infallible proofs. Many eyewitnesses combine their testimony, Paul adds the weight of his logical mind and personal investigation on the ground of the facts in the case (Gal. 1:18), and history confirms the event by the mighty monument of the Christian church and of Christendom which it has erected over his empty tomb. "This thing was not done in a corner," but in the full light of day. The divine Person of Christ matches and proves this epochal event, and the event equally proves his divine Person. It is a morning sun that dissipates the shadows of death and brings life and immortality to light. It fulfills all the dreams of men of a city which hath foundations, eternal in the heavens. It greatens our life with immeasurable worth and grand hopes; it satisfies the infinite longingings of the human soul for more life, life that will be fuller, sweeter, richer, even life ofrevermore. And so we join with the accent of conviction and sincerity in the most ancient creed of the church: "I believe in Jesus Christ our Lord, who suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried. the third day he rose again from the dead."

HOME TRAINING

The Safeguard of a Good Reputation.

A wealthy depositor in a bank had among other valuables a large package of United States bonds in the safe which he missed one day and reported the fact to the president of the bank.

The only person who had the keys to the safe was the cashier—a young man in whom the public had implicit confidence and whose reputation for honesty and high ideals had never been questioned.

The president called the cashier and told him of the loss. The cashier positive that no case against his integrity could be established—calmly replied to his superior officer, "The owner is laboring under a delusion of some kind. There are only two alternatives, either he is mistaken or I am a thief. It is for you to decide and I should be pleased to have you make your decision now."

The president replied, "I have every confidenec to believe that you are honest. Your associates are ready to swear in your behalf as to your integrity. I am absolutely certain that it would have been impossible for you to have taken the bonds. We shall wait a little while—something may develop that will help us to the truth. Give yourself no concern."

Time did clear up the situation for it was found that the owner had sold the bonds and had forgotten about the transaction.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

One third of the total Moslem population of the world is in India.

The famous Indian poet, Tagore, will come to America in May to attend the centenary celebration of the American Unitarian Association.

The Irish Free State parliament has adopted a resolution taking from the courts the right to grant divorce. This is in line with the doctrine of the Roman Catholic church.

Baptist Temple, Rochester, N. Y., recently laid the cornerstone for a fourteen story building. Bonds are being sold to finance the enterprise to the value of $800,000.

Young Men's Christian Associations are now established in 18 foreign countries with 384 associations and 125,000 members. There are 559 native secretaries and 183 American secretaries.

A $1,000,000 memorial to William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, is to be erected on Denmark Hill, London. It will contain educational buildings and lodging accommodations, and have a great tower that will carry a beacon light.

A gift of $1,600,000 has been made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the restoration of the Library of the Imperial University of Toyko, which was destroyed during the earthquake, together with 800,000 volumes.

France has 38,000,000 inhabitants. The Catholic church claims 8,000,000; All Protestant denominations have 600,000 members. So it remains that there are 30,000,000 people without any kind of religious training or influence.

An outright donation of $225,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and a donation of $225,000 more conditional on the Northern Baptist Convention's raising $4,000,000 by April 30 to bring its budget for the current fiscal year up to $6,166,000, the same as in the year previous, have just been announced. Mr. Rockefeller recently gave $400,000 toward l iquidating Baptist missionary debts.

Important excavations in the vicinity of the city of Ur of the Chaldeans are now being carried on by the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania. Great mounds of sand and mud now cover the buildings on the site where one of the greatest empires of ancient times stood, and where Abraham lived before he began his wanderings. Indisputable evidences of a high order of civilization have been found. One of the authentic pieces of evidence was a marble foundation tablet from a temple erected to the goddess Winkhursag by King Aannipadda, dating back to about 4300 B. C. This tablet is the oldest dated document ever found and it proves the historic existence of a dynasty hitherto commonly regarded as mythical, and gives a date, if not an authorship, for a very remarkable series of art objects. The discoveries not only throw new light on the Bible by illustrating incidents and customs of the time, but they also have reclaimed a part of pre-historic times by showing that what was tradition, really is history.

The United States is the only large country whose exports are greater than before the war.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in question form to church editor; answers will appear in later issue).

1. Can a school grow if teachers are not Christians?

It may grow in members, but it cannot grow in efficiency. The purpose of religious education is the development of Christian character, nothing less. Christianity is caught rather than taught. In my judgment he who is not a Christian should not be permitted to teach in the Sunday school. It should be understood that perfection of life is not required, but attitude or trend of life is a fundamental matter.

2. How may funds be secured for publicity purposes of the church?

An allowance may be voted by the official board as a part of the church budget. The adult Bible classes may sponsor the church publicity; special envelopes may be used at regular intervals for the needed funds; a special publicity committee may be appointed with power to secure funds; by an agreement with the official board, all above a certain amount of the loose offering in the regular Sunday church offerings may be used for publicity work, this fact being frequently announced before the offering is taken; the Women's Association with other organizations may unite in sharing in the expenses of publicity.

3. Are double sessions successful and practical?

They have been made pre-eminently so. This makes possible attendance at church service on the part of many parents of smaller children. It also provides an opportunity for training in worship for those very grades that seldom attend the service of worship. The disadvantage, of course, is in debarring teachers from the regular service of worship.

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during This Critical Time—Benefited Greatly

Baltimore, Maryland.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Lord's Resurrection (Luke 24:36-53), for Sunday, March 15.

1. Why were the disciples expecting a resurrection?
2. Why was Jesus' tomb opened at all if he did not need to have it so in order to rise from it? What is the significance of the fact that the napkin was lying by itself in the tomb?
3. What is the effect of the habit of preaching the resurrection mainly on funeral occasions?
4. What to you is the strongest proof of the resurrection?
5. How does the fact of his resurrection make Christ more truly your Lord and Savior?
6. How did Paul know the truth about the resurrection of Christ?

CLERICUS SAYS: No other miracle in the Bible is pushed out into such publicity and surrounded and supported by so many and so varied lines of proof that converge in one luminous center and glowing and glorious fact. God left no uncertainties hanging around it to throw doubt upon it, no mists to obscure it, but placed it on a rock in the broad light of history.

Lesson Prayer.

We thank thee, dear Savior, that thou livest. We would see thee this morning in all thy beauty. May we hear thee speak to us, "Because I live, ye shall live also." May we trust thee and thy word, and in thee find light and life. In thy dear name we pray. Amen.

Book Review.

"A Dutch Boy Fifty Years After," an adaptation of the Americanization of Edward Bok, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, is one of the notable biographies which received, from Columbia University, the Joseph Pulitzer prize of one thousand dollars as "the best American biography teaching patriotic and unselfish service to the nation and at the same time illustrating an eminent example.

"Talks to Young People on Ethics," by Clarence Hall Wilson, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, is a text for groups of young people with questions following each chapter to provoke wholesome discussion. The problems are for the pupils to wrestle with themselves that they will be able to work out some principles of action which will be permanent possessions.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Lord of Life and Master of Death. Our Lord's Resurrection. International Lesson for March 15.—John 20:1-16.

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

The resurrection of Christ is the central column of historic Christianity on which it rests. Throw this down and the whole structure falls into ruins; makes this sure and the historic gospel stands. It is the splendor of the resurrection that scatters the darkness of the crucifix and kindles every page of the gospel with glory. No one saw Jesus rise, but many saw him risen. The gospel narratives pour upon this event a blaze of light such as illuminates no other miracle in the Bible. Inspiration set it in its central place and buttressed it with many infallible proofs so that it cannot be shaken.

The Empty Tomb.

The morning opens with the faithful women, who were last at the cross, first at the tomb. What were they doing there? They bought spices and brought them to anoint the body of Jesus. This loving act has immense significance as showing the state of mind of these women and of all the disciples after the crucifixion. They believed that Jesus was dead and had no hope or thought of his resurrection. They were utterly bewildered, scattered and crushed and supposed that all was over. They were in no condition of mind, then, to invent or imagine a resurrection, and any theory of fraud or vision or hallucination on the part of the disciples is a psychological impossibility. This empty tomb stands as a fact against all attempts to explain it away and it is the first link in the chain of facts that prove the reality of this event.

Peter and John.

The women hastened to spread the news of the empty tomb, and Peter and John were the first disciples to set about an investigation. They at first disbelieved the report as idle talk and probably Peter was the loudest of the scoffers, but presently he "arose and ran to the tomb." This discloses Peter exercising an honest spirit of inquiry. He did not assume that there could be no resurrection and settle the case by a theory spun from his own mind, but he set about finding out the facts. To this test must this question of the resurrection of Christ come. Those grave clothes were mute but convincing evidence to these disciples that Jesus was indeed risen, and their unbelief now gave way to mighty faith that mastered them to the end of their days. This is what came of candid investigation of this report about the empty tomb and the fact stands to this day as a confirmation of our faith.

Mary's Mistaken Tears

The other women departed, but Mary Magdalene stood outside the tomb, weeping and peering into the sepulchre. When asked by the white-robed angels why she wept, she answered, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him." Mary weeping at the empty tomb of her Lord, supposing mistakenly that his body had bene stolen away, presents a deeply pathetic and significant picture. She was weeping over what she thought was an infinite piece of mischief in the world. All her passionate faith and love and hope had been swept into utter confusion by this tragic disaster. Yet God was shaping all these events into a triumphant victory that shall fill eternity with its song. How often are our pudgments as mistaken and blind Mary was simply breaking her heart over the baseless imagination of her own mind. Are not our tears sometimes as mistaken and far astray? Are we not living in God's world and is he not causing all things to work together for our good? Is not the grave itself but the green mountain top of a far new world? Did our blinded eyes and unbelieving hearts but know the truth about our dead, our tears might be seen to be as mistaken and baseless as the tears of Mary at the empty tomb of her risen Lord. Even as she wept, Jesus was revealed to her and her tears of grief were turned to tears of jubilant joy.

Many Infallible Proofs

The resurrection of Christ is attested by many infallible proofs. Many eyewitnesses combine their testimony, Paul adds the weight of his logical mind and personal investigation on the ground of the facts in the case (Gal. 1:18), and history confirms the event by the mighty monument of the Christian church and of Christendom which it has erected over his empty tomb. "This thing was not done in a corner," but in the full light of day. The divine Person of Christ matches and proves this epochal event, and the event equally proves his divine Person. It is a morning sun that dissipates the shadows of death and brings life and immortality to light. It fulfills all the dreams of men of a city which hath foundations, eternal in the heavens. It greatens our life with immeasurable worth and grand hopes; it satisfies the infinite longingings of the human soul for more life, life that will be fuller, sweeter, richer, even life ofrevermore. And so we join with the accent of conviction and sincerity in the most ancient creed of the church: "I believe in Jesus Christ our Lord, who suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried, the third day he rose again from the dead."

HOME TRAINING

The Safeguard of a Good Reputation.

A wealthy depositor in a bank had among other valuables a large package of United States bonds in the safe which he missed one day and reported the fact to the president of the bank.

The only person who had the keys to the safe was the cashier—a young man in whom the public had implicit confidence and whose reputation for honesty and high ideals had never been questioned.

The president called the cashier and told him of the loss. The cashier positive that no case against his integrity could be established—calmly replied to his superior officer, "The owner is laboring under a delusion of some kind. There are only two alternatives, either he is mistaken or I am a thief. It is for you to decide and I should be pleased to have you make your decision now."

The president replied, "I have every confidence to believe that you are honest. Your associates are ready to swear in your behalf as to your integrity. I am absolutely certain that it would have been impossible for you to have taken the bonds. We shall wait a little while—something may develop that will help us to the truth. Give yourself no concern."

Time did clear up the situation for it was found that the owner had sold the bonds and had forgotten about the transaction.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

One third of the total Moslem population of the world is in India.

The famous Indian poet, Tagore, will come to America in May to attend the centenary celebration of the American Unitarian Association.

The Irish Free State parliament has adopted a resolution taking from the courts the right to grant divorce. This is in line with the doctrine of the Roman Catholic church.

Baptist Temple, Rochester, N. Y., recently laid the cornerstone for a fourteen story building. Bonds are being sold to finance the enterprise to the value of $800,000.

Young Men's Christian Associations are now established in 18 foreign countries with 384 associations and 125,000 members. There are 559 native secretaries and 183 American secretaries.

A $1,000,000 memorial to William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, is to be erected on Denmark Hill, London. It will contain educational buildings and lodging accommodations, and have a great tower that will carry a beacon light.

A gift of $1,600,000 has been made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the restoration of the Library of the Imperial University of Toyko, which was destroyed during the earthquake, together with 800,000 volumes.

France has 38,000,000 inhabitants. The Catholic church claims 8,000,000; All Protestant denominations have 600,000 members. So it remains that there are 30,000,000 people without any kind of religious training or influence.

An outright donation of $225,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and a donation of $225,000 more conditional on the Northern Baptist Convention's raising $4,000,000 by April 30 to bring its budget for the current fiscal year up to $6,166,000, the same as in the year previous, have just been announced. Mr. Rockefeller recently gave $400,000 toward liquidating Baptist missionary debts.

Important excavations in the vicinity of the city of Ur of the Chaldeans are now being carried on by the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania. Great mounds of sand and mud now cover the buildings on the site where one of the greatest empires of ancient times stood, and where Abraham lived before he began his wanderings. Indisputable evidences of a high order of civilization have been found. One of the authentic pieces of evidence was a marble foundation tablet from a temple erected to the goddess Winkhursag by King Aannipadda, dating back to about 4300 B. C. This tablet is the oldest dated document ever found and it proves the historic existence of a dynasty hitherto commonly regarded as mythical, and gives a date, if not an authorship, for a very remarkable series of art objects. The discoveries not only throw new light on the Bible by illustrating incidents and customs of the time, but they also have reclaimed a part of pre-historic times by showing that what was tradition, really is history.

The United States is the only large country whose exports are greater than before the war.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in question form to church editor; answers will appear in later issue).

1. Can a school grow if teachers are not Christians?

It may grow in members, but it cannot grow in efficiency. The purpose of religious education is the development of Christian character, nothing less. Christianity is caught rather than taught. In my judgment he who is not a Christian should not be permitted to teach in the Sunday school. It should be understood that perfection of life is not required, but attitude or trend of life is a fundamental matter.

2. How may funds be secured for publicity purposes of the church?

An allowance may be voted by the official board as a part of the church budget. The adult Bible classes may sponsor the church publicity; special envelopes may be used at regular intervals for the needed funds; a special publicity committee may be appointed with power to secure funds; by an agreement with the official board, all above a certain amount of the loose offering in the regular Sunday church offerings may be used for publicity work, this fact being frequently announced before the offering is taken; the Women's Association with other organizations may unite in sharing in the expenses of publicity.

3. Are double sessions successful and practical?

They have been made pre-eminently so. This makes possible attendance at church service on the part of many parents of smaller children. It also provides an opportunity for training in worship for those very grades that seldom attend the service of worship. The disadvantage, of course, is in debarring teachers from the regular service of worship.

There is something better than making a living—making a life.

You are a living epistle; your deeds are the paragraphs, and the days are the pages.

A cultivated will is only another name for a strong character.

If I take care of my character, my reputation will take care of itself.—Dwight L. Moody.

The character of the laborer is far more important than the character of his occupation.

I am only one, but I am one; I cannot do everything, but I can do something; What I can do, that I ought to do, and, by the grace of God, I will do.

There was no radio when the Sermon on the Mount was preached, but the ways of time have carried it, human voices and deeds have proclaim it all down through the centuries, and it will still be borne onward for millions to hear until the end of time.

Vaneless windmills are now in use.

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during This Critical Time—Benefited Greatly

Baltimore, Maryland.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

Manager Speaker, of Indians, Denies He'll Quit Playing Job

BY DAMON RUNYON.

LOS ANGELES, March 14.

OLD TIMERS will tell you that Syracuse Tommy Ryan, once middleweight champion of the world, was one of the greatest fighters they ever saw.

The writer encountered Ryan in Jack Dempsey's new gymnasium one afternoon. He is rather short, stocky built, sturdy looking. His face is sunbrowned to the color of leather with old wrinkles around his eyes.

Syracuse Tommy has a small place out in Hollywood. He works hard in his garden and among his trees every day. He is constantly breathing in the God-given California ozone. That is why he looks so healthy.

His nose is somewhat spread, his ears are ever so slightly "tinned." These are the only marks of many desperate ring battles, covering a period of about twenty years in the ring.

SYRACUSE TOMMY'S right name as given in the records as Joseph Youngs. His features are distinctive Hebraic. Oldtimers often argue as to his nationality. Ryan says his mother was English, his father, French.

He is fifty-four. He doesn't look it. He has the appearance of a man in his midforties. That's what California ozone does for you.

Syracuse Tommy made plenty of money in the ring and KEPT IT. He is accounted wealthy. He added to his savings by investment in his home town, Syracuse. He has increased his bank account by investments out here.

SYRACUSE TOMMY was called a SMART fighter. He has proved it by his conduct and progress AFTER quitting the ring. Most old fighters wind up broke.

SYRACUSE TOMMY was watching Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, work out in Jack Dempsey's gymnasium. While Walker was being rubbed down in his dressing room, Ryan visited him and looked him over carefully.

He said Mickey was about his size when he was fighting.

"I never in my ring career weighed over 150 pounds stripped," said Ryan. He now weighs about 175 pounds. His dark hair is only lightly tinged with gray.

Away back in '94, Ryan beat Mysterious Billy Smith, who claimed the welterweight title, in a bout at Minneapolis. Ryan was recognized as the welterweight champion. They met again at Coney Island in 95. The police stopped the bout in the eighteenth round, and it was called a draw.

IN '96, KID McCOY knocked out Ryan in fifteen rounds at Maspeth, L. I.

The writer has read many accounts of this battle as an instance in which Ryan was "out-smarted." Some historians have referred to it as a "double-crossing."

McCoy had been one of Ryan's

"Nobody In Outfit Is Good Enough to Bump Me," Says Tris

Believes he Has Only Himself to Blame for Indifferent Showing in 1924, But Declares he Has Remedy; Expects Results This Year.

By Davis J. Walsh

LAKEWOOD, Fla., March 14. — "There's nobody on this ball club good enough to replace me."

In these not at all uncertain terms did Tris Speaker declare himself today on rumored possibility that the great outfielder, having perhaps seen better days, was preparing for a gradual self-elimination from the lineup of the Cleveland Indians. The move in question is furtherest from Speaker's thoughts.

He believes he has no one but himself to blame for his indifferent work in 1924 and intimates rather strongly that the same thing held true for the Indians, almost in toto. One notable exception was Jim Joe Edwards, the left handed gent, who sprained a careless knee.

For him Speaker furnishes a ready alibi. For himself, none. He staked himself to his worst performances since entering the majors in 1907, in spite of the fact that he hit .344. He, however, drove in only 65 runs as against 120 for 1923 and only two other American league outfielders, Ruth and Goslin, made more errors.

He was a semi-flop but he thinks he knows the remedy. So were some of his manly athletes and he has the cure for that also.

At the outset of the present training campaign each athlete was in receipt of a letter of admonition from President E. S. Barnard informing all and severally that the Cleveland Indians were a business institution, not a band wagon. It is understood the boys have decided to take the hint.

This is another year, of course, but Speaker can not forget what might have been.

"The disability of Uhle and Edwards cost us at least 30 ball games," he told the writer. "These would have made us finish one, two or three. Edwards twisted his knee after winning five games and was useless until September. Uhle just didn't round into condition. He won 26 games in 1923 and exactly eight last year. There was nothing the matter with his arm and there never has been. He just couldn't last the full nine innings.

"Both men now are well, able bodied and ambitious to a fault."

Of his own case, Speaker says nothing and says it eloquently. It has been noted, however, that he has eliminated the golf and hunting excursions that claimed his attention off the field in other years and not only is working for self advancement but that of others as a good manager should. It is claimed that Speaker once was a manager on the ball field only; that he went out, played great ball and expected his men to follow him. Some times they did.

As for the club itself, it is like an old house that has been given the benefit of a job of shingling. Not foolproof but rain worthy. For example, George Burns will be reinforced at first base by Bob Knode, ex-Michigan university youth who hit well for Birmingham last year. "Chick" Fewster. Heavier than ever before will play second base but may have to show cause to Joe Klugman, former Dodger, who is back for more. Joe Sewell, the best shortstop in the League, is self sufficient but Rube Lutzke at third base must either hit in a more superior manner or give way to Fred Spurgeon, product of New Orleans.

Riggs Stephenson has been wafted to the outfield in a last minute attempt to win some games with his hitting without losing more through his five-thumbed activities afield. He will be one of eight men trying for right field, Speaker and Charley Jamieson, perforce, playing the remaining two positions.

The eight candidates are:—Stephenson, Cliff Lee, former Phillies Pirate and Red; Homer Summa, former regular who has lost caste; Harvey Hendrick, ex-Yankee; Carr Smith, from Washington in the Coveleskie deal; Pat McNulty, four years with the club and still trying; L. J. Wyatt, from Terre Haute, and F. Eichrodut, from Spartansburg. Lee is the more highly esteemed at the moment, particularly if he continues to hit.

Glenn Myatt, a fine catcher, wants to work in all the games this year and probably will, although Luke Sewell is an adequate substitute.

In addition to Uhle and Edwards, those favored as regular pitchers are Sherry Smith, declared by Speaker to have been the best in the league last year; Joe Shaute, Byron Speece, another memento of the Coveleskie deal; the aged Benny Karr from Atlanta and a few more to be selected from Dutch Levsen and J. W. Miller, from Terre Haute; Watson Clark from Peoria:

Luther Roy, from Chattanooga, and Monroe Mitchell from Memphis. The latter, however, has contrived to get himself a sore arm and probably will be sent hence at an early moment.

The Girls downed the Junior lassies, 18 to 9, while the boys won a hard fought battle from the Freshmen, 20 to 18.

The boys' game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, the Freshies getting away to a lead at the quarter, 7 to 5. In the second period, the battle continued along similar lines although the count was deadlocked, 10-10, at the end of the half.

The Seniors cinched the contest in the third period when they piled up points the yearlings could not overcome, with Howard figuring in the scoring. Howard scored five field goals and one foul while Owens, Barnes and Woessner also played well for the winners. Kimes, Bloor, Gibbons and Curran starred for the first year squad.

The Senior girls outplayed their Junior opponents during most of the game. The score at the half was 6 to 2. In the third period, the Juniors were at the top form and came within two points of tying the score. In the final period the Seniors put on their big drive and sailed away to a decisive victory. TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Reds Trim Orioles.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14. — The Baltimore Orioles, six time champions of the International league, were humbled at Eustis yesterday by the Reds, who seemed to have found their batting eyes, lost when they played the world champions Thursday. Friday's score was 16 to 10 and in justice to the Baltimore crew it may be said it was their first game of the season. Both teams played ragged ball.

Tribe Rookie Shows Form.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—Watson Clark, Mississippi college southpaw, pitched in championship form for three innings yesterday, although the Cleveland Indians lost to the Indianapolis Association team, 9 to 8, in a ten inning game. Speaker used four twirlers, while three pitched for Indianapolis.

Blouin in Action.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 14.—Jimmy Blouin and his famed Chicago bowling team, going into action in the A. B. C., five men clashes as a member of the famous P. L. Wethe team of Chicago, stood out today as the newest stars in the national tournament bowling contest here.

The Chicago outfit amassed the grand total of 2,839 and assumed leadership in the five men division.

Berlenbach Stops Siki

NEW YORK, Mar. 14—Paul Berlenbach, "knockout king," today had increased his long string of knockouts is the result of stopping battling Siki the singular Senegalese, in the tenth round of a twelve round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

At no time did Siki show any of the ability which enabled him to knock out Georges Carpentier. His dangerous right hand was ineffective.

Berlenbach pummelled him about the ring with vicious lefts and rights. Only Siki's gameness enabled him to keep going as long as the tenth round when the referee called a halt when Berlenbach had hung him on the ropes in almost a helpless state.

Siki was a sorry figure when the end came. His left eye was almost entirely closed and his mouth, ears and nose were cut and bleeding.

Senior Teams Class League Cage Winners

Boys Defeat Freshmen and Girls Triumph Over Juniors.

Senior basketball teams scored two victories in interclass league contests yesterday afternoon on the high school court.

The Girls downed the Junior lassies, 18 to 9, while the boys won a hard fought battle from the Freshmen, 20 to 18.

The boys' game was a nip and tuck affair all the way, the Freshies getting away to a lead at the quarter, 7 to 5. In the second period, the battle continued along similar lines although the count was deadlocked, 10-10, at the end of the half.

The Seniors cinched the contest in the third period when they piled up points the yearlings could not overcome, with Howard figuring in the scoring. Howard scored five field goals and one foul while Owens, Barnes and Woessner also played well for the winners. Kimes, Bloor, Gibbons and Curran starred for the first year squad.

The Senior girls outplayed their Junior opponents during most of the game. The score at the half was 6 to 2. In the third period, the Juniors were at the top form and came within two points of tying the score. In the final period the Seniors put on their big drive and sailed away to a decisive victory. TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Reds Trim Orioles.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14. — The Baltimore Orioles, six time champions of the International league, were humbled at Eustis yesterday by the Reds, who seemed to have found their batting eyes, lost when they played the world champions Thursday. Friday's score was 16 to 10 and in justice to the Baltimore crew it may be said it was their first game of the season. Both teams played ragged ball.

Tribe Rookie Shows Form.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—Watson Clark, Mississippi college southpaw, pitched in championship form for three innings yesterday, although the Cleveland Indians lost to the Indianapolis Association team, 9 to 8, in a ten inning game. Speaker used four twirlers, while three pitched for Indianapolis.

Blouin in Action.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 14. Jimmy Blouin and his famed Chicago bowling team, going into action in the A. B. C., five men clashes as a member of the famous P. L. Wethe team of Chicago, stood out today as the newest stars in the national tournament bowling contest here.

The Chicago outfit amassed the grand total of 2,829 and assumed leadership in the five men division.

Berlenbach Stops Siki

NEW YORK, Mar. 14—Paul Berlenbach, "knockout king," today had increased his long string of knockouts is the result of stopping battling Siki the singular Senegalese, in the tenth round of a twelve round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

At no time did Siki show any of the ability which enabled him to knock out Georges Carpentier. His dangerous right hand was ineffective.

Berlenbach pummelled him about the ring with vicious lefts and rights. Only Siki's gameness enabled him to keep going as long as the tenth round when the referee called a halt when Berlenbach had hung him on the ropes in almost a helpless state.

Siki was a sorry figure when the end came. His left eye was almost entirely closed and his mouth, ears and nose were cut and bleeding.

Buy Pennsylvania Oils Like You Buy Diamonds

You don't buy a diamond just because the diamond is the most precious gem. Instead, you buy a flawless diamond—a diamond that has been so masterfully cut that it reflects a flame of color.

Similarly, don't buy various motor oils, made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude just because Pennsylvania is the finest crude. For example; FREEDOM Perfect is not only made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude; in addition, it is refined with an experience that has come with forty-five years of specializing in the refining of Paraffin base crudes.

Because of this, FREEDOM Perfect maintains its original lubricating and high heat resisting properties; frequent crank case changes are not necessary. Your dealer has FREEDOM Perfect—insist upon it.

sparring partners early in McCoy's pugilistic career. It is said he was very sore at Ryan because Ryan used to give him severe trouncings in the gymnasium, that he plotted carefully to Ryan's undoing.

The usual story is that he wrote Ryan a letter asking for a bout, so he could get a little money and suggesting to Ryan that he—McCoy—would be a "soft mark."

RYAN says the truth of the matter is that there was no soreness between them whatever; that they were good friends.

"I met McCoy on Broadway one day just after he had come back from England," Syracuse Tommy told the writer, "McCoy said he was broke, and that if he could get a match with me he could get hold of some money.

"I told him I didn't think anybody would put the match on, but he said he thought the promoters at Maspeth would do it, and I told him to go ahead and see what he could do. I thought no more about it until I got a letter from the promoters saying McCoy hald told them I would meet him and offering to put the bout on.

"McCoy was much bigger than me, but I recalled him from the gymnasium days and I thought I could easily beat him, so I took the match.

"I didn't train a lick for it. I just took off my coat and went into the ring. If there was any double-crossing, I double-crossed myself by not training."

sparring partners early in McCoy's pugilistic career. It is said he was very sore at Ryan because Ryan used to give him severe trouncings in the gymnasium, that he plotted carefully to Ryan's undoing.

The usual story is that he wrote Ryan a letter asking for a bout, so he could get a little money and suggesting to Ryan that he—McCoy—would be a "soft mark."

RYAN says the truth of the matter is that there was no soreness between them whatever; that they were good friends.

"I met McCoy on Broadway one day just after he had come back from England," Syracuse Tommy told the writer, "McCoy said he was broke, and that if he could get a match with me he could get hold of some money.

"I told him I didn't think anybody would put the match on, but he said he thought the promoters at Maspeth would do it, and I told him to go ahead and see what he could do. I thought no more about it until I got a letter from the promoters saying McCoy had told them I would meet him and offering to put the bout on.

"McCoy was much bigger than me, but I recalled him from the gymnasium days and I thought I could easily beat him, so I took the match.

"I didn't train a lick for it. I just took off my coat and went into the ring. If there was any double-crossing, I double-crossed myself by not training."
